GOOD CROPS IN STATE CUTTING LOAN DEMANDS

Decrease in Applications For Farm Loans to State Reflects Improvement

SEE CONTINUATION

Expected That Further Decrease in Number of Applications will be Recorded

The effect of good crops in North Dakota this year, it is believed, is being reflected in a reduction of applications of farmers for real estate loans. An examination of records of the Bank of North Dakota, Farm Loan Department here, revealed a marked falling off in the number of applications for farm loans in the last two months, since good crops became assured in most parts of the state.

According to Manager H. E. Shearn of the department, many loan applications of farmers, made last spring, have been cancelled or the amount of the loan asked has been reduced, this fall. Applications were made by many farmers in the spring for loans, to be made sometime this fall when loans would be made to retire existing obligations. In many instances it is unnecessary for a loan to be made at all, and others are able to reduce the necessary amount.

It is believed by Manager Shearn that greater effort will be noticed later, in a dropping off of applications for loans.

From August 8, 1924, to October 18, 1924, the number of loan applications was 864 as compared to 694 applications for a comparative period last year, a decrease this fall of 230 applications.

The Farm Loan Department of the bank has continued making loans at a rapid pace all summer. The total volume of farm loans of the department will exceed $6,000,000 during the year 1924, if the present rate is maintained in the last two months of the year. A total of $4,529,300 was loaned in the first nine months of the year, and in the month of October $464,000 had been loaned to October 24.

The loans by months follow: January, $420,150; February $10,000; March $470,000; April $772,200; May $571,950; June $377,050; July $507,400; August $499,200; September $600,500. An average of better than $500,000 a month has been maintained by the department.

SARGENT PLANS BIG EFFORT TO KEEP CORN CUP

County Commissioners Offer $100 in Prizes for State Show Preliminary

Sargent County Commissioners have offered $100 in prizes for corn to be shown at Forum Oct. 31, when the best samples will be selected at display at the North Dakota State Corn Show, or in connection with the state show.

Sargent county last year won the Hanna cup as the champion corn growing county in the state. The county must win the cup three times in succession to retain it. Because of the value which would come from a county being acclaimed state corn champion twice or three times in succession, Sargent county is out to retain the cup this fall.

FINDS BEES DO WELL ON SLOPE

Carson, N. D., Oct. 29.—Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mathys, of south of Luth, were in town. Ed claims the distinction of bringing the first hive of bees into Grand County and says the bees bring him a good return and wonders why more people do not raise them. He swarmed a hive of bees on August 13th and this swarm has made enough honey for their own consumption for the winter and fifty pounds for him. The bees have fed and made the honey from sweet clover blossoms.

Hope, N. D., Oct. 29.—James M. Hutchinson, 35, who sold lead pencils here while representing himself as a deaf-mute, was arrested on complaint of Kidder county authorities who charge him with attempting to commit a burglary. When arrested and informed of the accusation, he began to shout and cry out. He showed papers to prove he is a United States citizen and claimed he was wounded and gassed while serving with Canadian forces. Authorities said he appears to be suffering from mental trouble.

LITTLE DAKOTA GIRL, NOW AN ORPHAN EXPRESSES HER SORROW IN POETRY

Fanny Kremensky, Who Formerly Lived Near Regan, Tells in Poems What it Means for a Girl to Be Left Without Father and Mother.

A little school girl, who lived on a farm near Regan, lost her father and mother. As years have rolled by the sense of her loss has deepened and she has begun to write poetry, each carrying the burden of her sorrow. Poems composed by the girl, who is Fanny Kremensky, have been given The Tribune by Tuttle friends. Although 16 years of age now, Fanny is a small girl and is said to appear much younger. Almost seven years ago, her father sold their farm near Regan and moved to Washburn. There were father, mother, two boys, Fanny and an older sister. Then her father became sick and died. Two months later her mother passed on. The family then moved to Tuttle, where they lived for three years in their old home, the children all together. (Continued on page 3)

BRITAIN GOES TO POLLS IN BITTER FIGHT

Big Question Is Whether Labor Government Can Retain Control

FORECAST LACKING

Conservatives Are Making Hard Fight to Oust MacDonald Government

London, Oct. 29.—Great Britain's voters went to the polls today to choose a new parliament to replace that dissolved at the instance of the laborite prime minister, Ramsay MacDonald, on October 9, following an unfavorable vote in the Commons.

Whether the conservatives can recoup their losses of a year ago and return to the house of commons with a majority over all other parties, and thereby put themselves into office without the assistance of others, is a question no one has any means of determining, or even reasonably forecasting, until the returns come in.

The whole pre-election political situation has been made utterly uncertain by the 11th hour bursting of the "Russian bombshell" with an effect on the country that cannot be gauged. Until this "red letter" gave the campaign orators a live topic the electorate were an apathetic air and it was rather the general expectation that the 3 parties would return to Westminster in the same relative positions they held numerically when the last parliament's life ended—the conservatives first, labor second and the liberals third—with the conservatives lacking a clear majority.

But now nobody can say with any confidence what the result will be. In any event what happens will not be due to upathy unless the voters are entirely unaffected by screaming headlines and unperturbed by political speakers.

If Lady Astor does not retain her seat in parliament in the elections by a largely increased majority, all the prophets will be greatly surprised. Her success at the polls is assured, in the opinion of conservative headquarters here.

Lady Astor from first to last has opposed the Russian loan and denounced socialism.

CHINESE TONG MEN PLANNED TO USE GAS

Gas Bombs Are Taken by New York Police Who Get Tip on Action

New York, Oct. 29.—The newest feud of the tong might have been renewed today with the most modern of war materials—gas bombs—except for a lucky tip last night, police said. Two gas grenades were seized last night in a raid on a Chinese restaurant and Long Wong Chau, waiter, was arrested on a charge of possessing them. The police said that Chau is a member of the Hui Sing tong. J. A. Prout, inspector of the Bureau of Combustibles, said that one of the grenades, if placed in a small room and ignited, or immersed in water, would kill every person in the room. He added that "placed in a large hall under similar circumstances one of the grenades would render every person therein unconscious."

Chau, according to police, said he had ordered the bombs with a view of testing them for use in the civil war now raging in China.

ACTORS JAUNT SCRUTINIZED BY COMMITTEE

Senate Committee Investigating Campaign Funds Turns to Trip

EXPENSES ARE PAID

Sale of "Lines" in Vaudeville Skits Is Charged by Witness

Washington, Oct. 29.—While bankers and captains of industry waited in the wings for further questioning, the Senate campaign fund investigating committee today switched its spotlight on the delegation of actors who recently called at the White House and breakfasted with President Coolidge.

Rhineland Waldo, former police commissioner of New York, testified that the Coolidge-Nonpartisan organization of which he is head paid the expenses of the actors during the trip to Washington. Then from Gibson Gardner, a Washington newspaper man, the committee heard a suggestion that Republican money had been used also to secure the use of "lines" favorable to Coolidge in various vaudeville skits.

Gardner, a supporter of LaFollette said that early in September, William Burch of Washington, representing the McCutcheon-Gerson Syndicate, a subsidiary of the Schubert theatrical corporation, called on him and offered to sell to the LaFollette organization for $50,000 a publicity proposition which would include lines worked into vaudeville programs favorable to the candidate.

"The young man told me that they would prefer to sell the scheme to LaFollette because they sympathized with his views," Gardner said, "and would be willing to sell it to LaFollette at a lower figure than to either of the old parties."

He said he declined Burch's offer, saying, "that is more money than LaFollette has."

DEAL MADE

Chicago, Oct. 29. Ben McCutcheon, one of the owners of the McCutcheon-Gerson Publicity Syndicate, said today he never had heard of any such proposition as told the Senate committee on campaign expenditures by Gibson Gardner, a Washington newspaper man, and supporter of the LaFollette independent campaign. Mr. McCutcheon also said he did not know William Burch of Washington, mentioned by Gardner as having represented the McCutcheon-Gerson organization and that Mr. Burch had not represented his syndicate.

"I never heard of any such thing," Mr. McCutcheon said, when informed that Mr. Gardner had said Burch had proposed on behalf of the McCutcheon-Gerson syndicate to sell the LaFollette organization for $50,000 a publicity proposition to include lines favorable to the candidate in vaudeville acts.

"I do not know Mr. Burch. We have no representative in Washington. We are doing some publicity feature work for the Democratic national ticket but have done nothing for the Republican or LaFollette organization and I never heard of such a thing as Gardner attributes to Burch."

One morning a silent, reverent crowd passed by to pay its final respects to the dead.

The train which brought the Secretary's body to Des Moines was met last night by several thousand people. Although darkness had fallen the streets on the way to the capital were lined with people. The funeral will be held late today.

DEATH TOLL FROM "LOONEY" GAS IS INCREASED TO FOUR TODAY

New York, Oct. 29.—The death toll from the "looney" gas poisoning of workers in the research laboratory of the Bayway, New Jersey, plant of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey was increased to four by the death today of William Kresage, 29 years old, of Elizabeth, N. J., in Reconstruction Hospital.

Before his death Kresage became so violent that he had to be placed in a strait-jacket. The other victims of the gas who died were similarly afflicted.

Herbert Fuson, also of Elizabeth, is in a critical condition at the hospital. He also has been placed in a strait-jacket. Fifteen other employees are in the same hospital in varying stages of ailment produced by the gas. Physicians in charge of the patients frankly admitted that they were puzzled by the strange malady caused by the gas. Meanwhile thorough investigations are being made into the operation of the research laboratory.

It was brought from Maramba Minas, Brazil, by O. C. Farington, head of the Museum department of geology, who headed one of Captain Marshall Field's South American expeditions. If placed on the market the stone would supply the demand for this variety of topaz for many years to come, Museum officials said.

PRECIOUS GEM, LARGEST EVER FOUND, SHOWN

Chicago, Oct. 29.—A white topaz, weighing 90 pounds, large enough to make 205,120 dinner rings of one carat in size and said to be the largest precious gem yet discovered, has been placed on exhibition in the Field Museum here.

The Bismarck Association of Commerce, in a telegram sent to President Coolidge by President W. H. Webb with approval of the board of directors, urged the appointment of Dr. J. L. Coulter, president of the North Dakota Agricultural College, to be Secretary of Agriculture, to succeed the late Henry C. Wallace. The telegram follows:

"Washington, D. C.
In behalf of the district in which agriculture is the main industry, we urge the appointment of Dr. Coulter, president of the North Dakota Agricultural College, as Secretary of Agriculture. As a boy reared on a North Dakota farm and later as a young man he has made a practical as well as a scientific study of farm problems not only in this country but abroad. There are few more outstanding men in the agricultural field today than Dr. Coulter. His selection would meet with instant favor from every center where agricultural problems are so vital to progress."

By W. H. Webb, President.
Bismarck Association of Commerce.

COULTER SUPPORTED
Active steps to support Dr. John Lee Coulter, president of the North Dakota Agricultural college for the appointment to the position of secretary of agriculture left vacant by the death of Henry C. Wallace have been taken by the Fargo Commercial club and other organizations in North Dakota.

Telegrams were sent by the Fargo club to Washington and to all commercial clubs in the state suggesting the support of Dr. Coulter.

The North Dakota Farmers Grain Dealers association has sent a telegram from Grand Forks urging the appointment of Dr. Coulter and other wires are expected to be sent soon.

FAMOUS HOLSTEIN HERD BRINGS TO POWERS LAKE
FARMER $5,000 IN CASH
Powers Lake, N. D., Oct. 29.—The famous Ross Martin Holstein herd, known as one of the outstanding purebred herds of the state, was sold for a cash consideration of $5,000 to John Echart of Glasgow, Mont. The deal is one of the biggest ever made in this section of the state. The Ross Martin Holsteins have been shown at the Minot, Devils Lake and Stanley fairs where 61 premiums were won. The herd consists of 41 head of purebreds, including calves.

Mr. Martin, while disposing of his purebreds, proposes to continue in the dairy business, and has already laid plans to pick up high grade milk cows for use on his farm near Powers Lake.

IMPROVEMENT OF BUSINESS IS REFLECTED

Two Banks in Cavalier and One in Mercer Counties Are Involved

DEPOSITS $350,000.00

Full Liability of Depositors Is Said Recognized in Reopenings

Reopening of three banks in North Dakota, as a part of the general revival of business in the state, was announced today by Gilbert Semingson, state bank examiner.

The State Bank of Surlis, Cavalier county, which went on special deposit on October 16, 1923, was reopened under the name of the Merchants State Bank of Surlis. The closed bank had capital of $25,000, surplus of $5,000 and deposits of $100,000. The bank, on its reopening, took over the assets and liabilities of the Farmers and Merchants State Bank of Surlis, which was closed on November 10, last, with deposits of $95,000. Depositors' full liability is recognized in the merger, Mr. Semingson said.

The First State Bank of Beulah, Mercer county, also reopened. The bank went on special deposit December 31, last, having capital of $20,000, surplus of $25,000 and deposits of $161,000. M. P. McGregor of Minneapolis is president and E. A. Kees is vice-president and manager.

The reopening of the banks was made possible by good crops this fall. Especially fine crops in northeastern North Dakota have resulted in the reopening of many banks which were closed last year.

With more than 35 closed banks already reopened, the reopening of other banks is expected by state officials. The good crop also is expected to boost collections made by receivers of closed banks, and materially increase the dividends to be paid depositors. The reopening of each bank also has the effect of reducing the liability of the Guaranty Fund Commission.

WHEREAS, it is provided by our laws that a general election shall be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November in every fourth year for the election of county, state and national officers, including the Governor of our state, the president of the United States, members of the legislature and of congress;

NOW, THEREFORE, by virtue of the authority vested in me, I, A. P. Lenhart, President of the city of Bismarck, in the state of North Dakota, do hereby proclaim it the duty of every citizen of the community to vote at the general election to be held in the city of Bismarck on Tuesday, the fourth day of November, 1924, according to his honest convictions and do request and urge that all places of business within the city close between the hours of eleven and twelve o'clock in the forenoon of that day to permit the full exercise of the franchise of citizenship.

Closing of business houses of the city from 12:30 p. m. until 4 p. m. on Armistice Day, November 11, is requested by Lloyd Spets Post, American Legion, in a statement issued today as follows:

The Lloyd Spets Post of the American Legion respectfully requests that the merchants of Bismarck assist in the proper observance of Armistice Day, November 11th, by closing their places of business at least between the hours of 12:30 and 4 p. m. during which time there will be a parade and exercises at the Auditorium. A compliance with the above is also requested by the Retail Trade Committee of the Association of Commerce.

Philip Elliot has been named chairman of the committee on exercises.

MAYOR'S HOUSE IS WRECKED BY AN EXPLOSION

Conflict Over Parade of Ku Klux Klan Leads to the Dynamiting

Niles, Ohio, Oct. 29.—A bomb explosion early today wrecked the front porch and damaged the front of the home of Mayor Harvey C. Kistler and shook many other buildings in the neighborhood. Neither Mr. Kistler nor his wife, who were asleep in an upstairs room, were injured.

A controversy regarding the rights of the Ku Klux Klan to stage a parade here on Saturday afternoon had been waging for several days. Officials of the Knights of the Flaming Circle also applied for permission to parade at the same time, but their request was denied by the measure which declared that Klan officials applied first.

Officials of the Knights of the Flaming Circle have announced they will parade without permit. Mayor Kistler has appealed to surrounding cities to send policemen to reinforce the local force.

A peace conference held last evening, with leaders of both factions present failed to achieve its object of a truce, it was announced after the meeting.

Mayor Kistler today said he had been warned that reprisals would follow his refusal to cancel the Klan's permit for a parade. He declined to say in what form the warning was received.

JOE BERGER SEEKS PARDON

Jamestown, N. D., Oct. 29.—County Attorney Chase has received an application for pardon for Joe Berger, sentenced last January to life imprisonment for the confessed murder of Winfred Tookey and James Keown, Gilman City. Missouri boys here in the early fall of 1923. Attorney Chase thinks that Berger must have been encouraged to send in the application by someone who wanted to cheat him up and was unacquainted with the state laws which provide that a man sentenced for life must serve at least one third of his life expectancy before pardon can be considered. Mr. Chase will answer the application with the information that he does not consider Berger a safe person to be at large, regardless of his crime.

Sargent County Commissioners have offered $100 in prizes for corn to be shown at Forman Oct. 31, when the best samples will be selected at display at the North Dakota corn show to be held at Bismarck, Nov. 12-15.

DEATH TOLL FROM "LOONEY" GAS IS INCREASED TO FOUR TODAY

New York, Oct. 29.—The death toll from the "looney" gas poisoning of workers in the research laboratory of the Bayway, New Jersey, plant of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey was increased to four by the death today of William Kresage, 29 years old, of Elizabeth, N. J., in Reconstruction Hospital.

Before his death Kresage became so violent that he had to be placed in a strait-jacket. The other victims of the gas who died were similarly afflicted.

Herbert Fuson, also of Elizabeth, is in a critical condition at the hospital. He also has been placed in a strait-jacket. Fifteen other employees are in the same hospital in varying stages of ailment produced by the gas. Physicians in charge of the patients frankly admitted that they were puzzled by the strange malady caused by the gas. Meanwhile thorough investigations are being made into the operation of the research laboratory.

PRECIOUS GEM, LARGEST EVER FOUND, SHOWN

Chicago, Oct. 29.—A white tope, weighing 90 pounds, large enough to make 200,000 diamond rings of one carat in size and said to be the largest precious gem yet discovered, has been placed on exhibition in the Field Museum here.

It was brought from Maramba Minas, Brazil, by O. C. Farrington, head of the Museum department of geology, who headed one of Captain Marshall Field's South American expeditions. If placed on the market the stone would supply the demand for this variety of tope for many years to come, Museum officials said.

BISMARCK FOR DR. COULTER IN CABINET PLACE

Association of Commerce Sends Telegram to Washington Boosting Him

The Bismarck Association of Commerce, in a telegram sent to President Coolidge by President W. H. Webb with approval of the board of directors, urged the appointment of Dr. J. L. Coulter, president of the North Dakota Agricultural College, to be Secretary of Agriculture, to succeed the late Henry C. Wallace. The telegram follows:

"In behalf of a district in which agriculture is the main industry, we urge the appointment of Dr. Coulter, president of the North Dakota Agricultural College, as Secretary of Agriculture. As a boy reared on a North Dakota farm and later as a young man he has made a practical as well as a scientific study of farm problems not only in this country but abroad. There are few more outstanding men in the agricultural field today than Dr. Coulter. His selection would meet with instant favor from every center where agricultural problems are so vital to progress."

A petition asking that an arch light be placed near the South Side Mission was received.

FAMOUS HOLSTEIN HERD BRINGS TO POWERS LAKE FARMER $5,000 IN CASH

Powers Lake, N. D., Oct. 29.—The famous Ross Martin Holstein herd, known as one of the outstanding purebred herds of the state, was sold for a cash consideration of $5,000 to John E. Schatz of Glasgow, Mont. The deal is one of the biggest ever made in this section of the state. The Ross Martin Holsteins have been shown at the Minot, Devils Lake and Stanley fairs where 61 premiums were won. The herd consists of 41 head of purebreds, including calves.

Mr. Martin, while disposing of his purebreds, proposes to purchase in the dairy business, and has already laid plans to pick up high grade milk cows for use on his farm near Powers Lake.

Despite the fact that herring are in short supply, herring are being imported to that region from Scandinavian countries.

IMPROVEMENT OF BUSINESS IS REFLECTED

Two Banks in Cavalier and One in Mercer Counties Are Involved

DEPOSITS $350,000.00

Full Liability of Depositors Is Said Recognized in Reopenings

Reopening of three banks in North Dakota, as a part of the general revival of business in the state, was announced today by Gilbert Semington, state bank examiner.

The State Bank of Sarles, Cavalier county, which went on special deposit on October 16, 1923, was reopened under the name of the Merchants State Bank of Sarles. The closed bank had capital of $25,000, surplus of $5,000 and deposits of $100,000. The bank, on its reopening, took over the assets and liabilities of the Farmers and Merchants State Bank of Sarles, which was closed on November 10, last, with deposits of $95,000. Depositors' full liability is recognized in the merger, Mr. Semington said.

The First State Bank of Beulah, Mercer county also reopened. The bank went on special deposit December 31, last, having capital of $20,000, surplus of $25,000 and deposits of $161,000. M. P. McGregor of Minneapolis is president and E. A. Keen is vice-president and manager.

The reopening of the banks was made possible by good crops this fall. Especially fine crops in northeastern North Dakota have resulted in the reopening of many banks which were closed last year.

With more than 35 closed banks already reopened, the reopening of other banks is expected by state officials. The good crops also is expected to boost collections made by receivers of closed banks, and materially increase the dividends to be paid depositors. The reopening of each bank also has the effect of reducing the liability of the Guaranty Fund Commission.

MAYOR'S HOUSE IS WRECKED BY AN EXPLOSION

Conflict Over Parade of Ku Klux Klan Leads to the Dynamiting

Niles, Ohio, Oct. 29.—A bomb explosion early today wrecked the front porch and damaged the front of the home of Mayor Harvey C. Kistler and shook many other buildings in the neighborhood. Neither Mr. Kistler nor his wife, who were asleep in an upstairs room, were injured.

A controversy regarding the rights of the Ku Klux Klan to stage a parade here on Saturday afternoon had been waging for several days. Officials of the Knights of the Flaming Circle also applied for permission to parade at the same time, but their request was denied by the measure which declared that Klan officials applied first.

Officials of the Knights of the Flaming Circle have announced they will parade without permit. Mayor Kistler has appealed to surrounding cities to send policemen to reinforce the local force.

A peace conference held last evening, with leaders of both factions present failed to achieve its object of a truce, it was announced after the meeting.

Mayor Kistler today said he had been warned that reprisals would follow his refusal to cancel the Klan's permit for a parade. He declined to say in what form the warning was received.

JOE BERGER SEEKS PARDON

Jamestown, N. D., Oct. 29.—County Attorney Chase has received an application for pardon for Joe Berger, sentenced last January to life imprisonment for the confessed murder of Winfred Tookee and James Keown, Gilman City, Missouri boys here in the early fall of 1923. Attorney Chase thinks that Berger must have been encouraged to send in the application by someone who wanted to cheer him up and was unacquainted with the state laws which provide that a man sentenced for life must serve at least one third of his life expectancy before pardon can be considered.

Mr. Chase will answer the application with the information that he does not consider Berger a safe person to be at large, regardless of his crime.

A powder that is virtually flashless as well as powerless is now in the possession of the United States War Department.

GOOD FAITH BY ABSENT VOTER HELD REQUIRED

Provisions of Law Explained
By Assistant Attorney-
General to Committee

CANT DODGE LAW

Holds That Voter Must Be Absent Before Election to Be Able to Use Ballot

The absent voter's ballot may not be used in the forthcoming election by a person who does not intend to be absent from the county on the day of election, it is held in an opinion given here by L. L. Butterwick, assistant attorney-general. The opinion was in response to a request for information by the Bismarck Independent Campaign Committee.

The only exception found by Mr. Butterwick in the law is in the event that the voter casts an absent ballot, goes out of the county and returns unexpectedly on or before election day. The ballot may be counted in this event. If the voter cast an absent ballot and did not leave the county it would be grounds for contesting an election in a precinct, he holds.

Opinion in Part

"Replying to your request for a construction of the absent voter's ballot law and for a specific statement as to whether or not electors may cast an absent voter's ballot, if in fact they are not absent from the county upon election day, and also for specific information as to whether or not an elector of a precinct can challenge an absent voter's vote, he to arise from that Section 992, Compiled Laws 1919, provides that any qualified elector of this state having complied with the laws in regard to registration who is absent from the county of which he is an elector on the day of holding any general or primary election, may vote at such election as hereinafter provided." It is perfectly clear from the language employed by the legislature in drafting this section that only such electors as are absent from their county on election day may vote by means of the absent voter's ballot and that they were the only section dealing with the subject, there will be no difficulty whatever in holding that if the voter was present in his county on election day there would be no authority for the election board receiving his absent voter's ballot.

Another Section

"Section 1002, however, provides as follows:

"The provisions of this act shall be construed so as to permit any qualified elector of this state who is present in his county after the official absent voter's ballots of such county have been printed, and who has reasons to believe that he will be absent from such county on election day as before provided in Section 993, to vote before he leaves his county in like manner as absent voters, and any qualified elector who has marked his ballot as herebefore provided who shall unexpectedly return to his precinct before or on election day shall be permitted to vote in person, provided his ballot has not already been deposited in the ballot box."

"It thus will be seen that Section 1002 modifies in a degree the provision of Section 993, and under the latter section in certain circumstances, it is legal for the election board to receive an absent voter's ballot when as a matter of fact the voter himself is present in the county. In order to construe both the sections above referred to so that each may receive a reasonable and practical operation, it is necessary that the limit of the operation of Section 1002 to those specific instances where the elector has in fact left his county in pursuance of the expectation stated in his application for absent voter's ballot, but has unexpectedly returned to his county on or before election day, and it is the opinion of this office and we so hold that in those instances where the elector has secured and marked an absent voter's ballot in the expectation of leaving the county or the alleged expectation of leaving the county, but as a matter of fact never leaves the county, he is not entitled to have his absent voter's ballot deposited in the ballot box by the election officers, and that if such ballots are deposited and counted by the election board, the canvass of the same by the board will be ground for a contest of the election in that precinct."

Man Held Is Not Minot Yegg

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 29.—Harry Miller, awaiting trial by the Cass county district court in the county jail, on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, is not Harry Miller wanted by Sheriff A. S. Spicher of Minot for robbing several North Dakota banks, according to W. C. Macfadden, secretary of the North Dakota Bankers' association.

A full description of the Miller wanted at Minot was sent by Sheriff Spicher to Mr. Macfadden.

Miller was arrested by Fargo police a week ago and on his person was found a number of tools, which, police say, are used by professional burglars.

ECONOMY IN SCHOOLS URGED

Consider Both Interests of
Pupil and Taxpayer.
Advice

"Careful spending, wise spending, thoughtful spending for schools, will result in better schools at less cost," Miss Bertha R. Palmer, nominee for state superintendent of public instruction, told the Parent-Teacher Association of McKenzie last night, urging cooperation between patrons and school officials to the end that both the interest of the pupils and the taxpayers may be served.

"Economy is an attitude of mind which must be cultivated," Miss Palmer said. "It cannot be enforced by law. It would be fine if we could have everything taught in our public schools and paid for from the public purse. But there is no such thing as public money, but only money which all of us put into a general fund that we may have as a community what we cannot have as individuals. This money and property should be held as personal trust and administered as such. There are as many ways to save on school expenses as there are in the home when it is necessary to spend less and make every dollar pay for a hundred cents worth."

Care of school property and utilizing the schools to the fullest extent by constant attendance by pupils were urged as methods of accomplishing economy in their conduct.

"Waste and inefficient business management must be condemned by public sentiment, which must also be aroused to the interest of the children not, however, overlooking the burden which the taxpayer must carry in addition to the schools," Miss Palmer said.

MINOT PEDDLER ORDINANCE IS IN U. S. COURT

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 29.—The City of Minot was restrained from enforcing its ordinance for licensing solicitors until the termination of the suit by the Real Silk History company of Indianapolis against the city, according to an order granted by Judge Andrew Miller of Fargo in United States district court.

The case is triable in the Minot division during the term which will be held shortly after the first of the year.

Declaring that the measure "will unlawfully interfere with and burden interstate commerce" the Indianapolis organization contends that the measure will abridge their privileges and immunities and deprive them of liberty and property without due process of law. The history mills sell their products through solicitors.

Under the ordinance all solicitors who receive a deposit in advance of delivery must post a surety bond with the city auditor, and must take out a license. The fee is $5 monthly and $12.50 quarterly for solicitors on foot and twice these amounts for those using vehicles.

The Fargo city commission is considering a similar ordinance.

STUDENTS HELD NOT GUILTY OF SIGNALS SALE

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 29.—Three students of Kentucky University here today stood exonerated of persistent reports that had connected them with alleged efforts to sell football signals and plays of Kentucky to the Washington and Lee eleven prior to a recent game.

Identity of the students was not disclosed. Exonerated of the suspected students came late last night after a lengthy session of the men's student council of the university.

STATE MUSEUM OFFERS MANY FINE EXHIBITS

State Historical Society to Display Relics of Pioneer
Life in State

TWO ROOMS OPENED

With the new Liberty Memorial Building on the state capital grounds occupied, the North Dakota State Historical Society expects soon to be able to offer the public one of the finest museums in the Northwest.

The museum, which occupies the top floor of the new building, has three large display rooms, the "Natural History Room," the "Indian Room," and the "Pioneer Room." The first two rooms have been occupied and exhibits now are being placed in the pioneer room, which will be the largest of the three.

An exceptionally fine and complete Indian display is already the property of the Historical Society, and it will be added to from time to time. Included among the exhibits are a relief of a typical Mandan Indian village, a skin boat used in crossing the Missouri River, an Indian ceremonial drum, ceremonial costumes and pictures. When the Indian exhibit is completed, Curator L. F. Crawford believes it will be the finest in the Northwest.

The Natural History display consists of birds and mammals native to North Dakota. Many beautiful specimens of the taxidermist's art are offered in this room. Included among the exhibits is a great buffalo skin, mounted deer heads, a coyote, and wild cat. One of the most prized exhibits is that of two deer heads, with horns locked. The deer were found by Jefferson McDonald, rancher living northwest of Billings, according to the information in the hands of the Society. They were locked in death battle. One deer was dead and the other dying when found. The cause of the remarkable interest shown in the exhibit, it was sent to the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo in 1901.

The Pioneer Room will contain exhibits of all kinds which preserve to this and coming generations objects depicting the methods of pioneer living in North Dakota. Many implements used on farms and ranches, which now are obsolete, will be included.

The space provided for the Museum will permit of expansion in the future. The east from which the famous equestrian statue of Theodore Roosevelt, given to Portland, Oregon, by Dr. Henry Waldo Cook, will be placed in the new building.

Little Dakota Girl, Now An Orphan, Expresses Sorrow

gether. Last summer the family began to break up, the older sister and brother leaving home. Fanny was taken to Watford City, where she is attending school.

"I am very lonesome," she wrote a relative in Tuttle, "especially when it rains. I sit in my little room and look out through the window and cry for my dad and mother. I realize now what it means to be left with only parents, and as the rain drops fall against the window pane, it seems as if the whole world were crying with me. And during those lonesome, rainy days I write my poems—poems that come from deep down in my heart from loneliness and longing for my daddy and mother."

Two Of Poems Two of her mother:

Your dear little lady, old and gray
And I can't help loving you more each day,
Your eyes are as blue as the blue above,
But they do not sparkle as in the days of love.

The roses from your cheeks have now faded away,
But your loveliness lingers as of yesterday.

Your dear little lady, old and gray
And I can't help loving you more each day.

A REVERY

I'm sitting alone by a window
And the wind blows softly blow,
I'm thinking again of my mother
And the days of long ago.

She enters the room so softly
And stands in back of my chair,
She tells me stories of long ago
While her hand caresses my hair.

The sun sinks lower and lower,
And finally it leaves the sky,
And the room is left in darkness,
Save for the light in her eye.

She tells me how much she loves me
And the world does peaceful seem
But alas, I awake to find
It has only been a dream.

Then I feel forsaken and all alone,
Into mother's arms would creep,
But in a lonely little graveyard,
She is lying fast asleep.

But I must not weep or sigh or cry
Or show my anguish and woe
And smile though a tear be in my eye
For God has willed it be so.

My mother is an angel
And she sits on a throne above
With Daddy right there near her,
To tell her of his love.

And she, my mother darling,
Is so glad to have him near,
For she couldn't live when he left us,
Life for her was sad and drear.

So Daddy must have pleaded with
The angels up above,
Until finally they consented
And sent to him his love.

But I'm lonesome down here mother,

"SINNERS IN HEAVEN"

The engagement of Hugh Boche and Barbara Stockley set the little English town of Durbury sizzling with pleasurable gossip. Every body parted contentedly over the satisfactory match. "They will make such a nice, respectable, young couple."

No one even vaguely suspected the truth.

A sense of duty had made Barbara consent to the engagement. She did not love Hugh. He was too dull, too stolid, a poor substitute for the cavalier of her dreams. Barbara was sick of her narrow surroundings, bored to death with her conventional home life. She longed for freedom. She craved excitement. Her soul was seared for romance. She wanted to feel and experience life. Echoes of a jazz-band world had filled her heart with strange, wild impulses.

With her wedding day four months off, Barbara grew desperately restless. If only she could satisfy her desires, taste a little happiness before marriage caged her in "Durbury forever!" To Mrs. Fried, a worldly woman, her intimate friend, she poured out her innermost yearnings. That wise, understanding woman sympathized and promised to help her.

This extraordinary story will be told in "Sinners in Heaven" which is being shown at the Eltinge Theatre today and Thursday. Bobe Daniels and Richard Dix are featured.

CHARGE FALSE USE OF NAME OF G. M. YOUNG

Stutsman Independent Headquarters Charges Fraud in Second District

A REPLY IS MADE

The Stutsman county Independent Campaign committee has issued a statement charging the LaFollette Nye Club of Griggs county with trafficking in the name of George M. Young, former congressman from the Second district, in an effort to bolster up the candidacy of Robert M. LaFollette and Gerald P. Nye in the Second district.

A letter was sent by the club to postal workers in the district. At the top of the letter the names of the club officers were given, Charles Young of Cooperstown being president. However the letter was signed George M. Young, president, and in the lower left hand corner was a stenographer's mark, "GMY R."

The Stutsman organization charged that the letter issued at Thomas Hill was a forgery of the name of George M. Young.

Frazier's Answer

R. W. Frazier, in charge of the LaFollette Wheeler headquarters here, in answer to the charges, made public the following telegram, which was dated October 27, 1924:

Cooperstown, N. D., Oct. 27, 1924

John Bloom,

Bismarck, N. D.

Attention just called to fact that local headquarters Saturday addressed circular letter to all postal employees, signed LaFollette Nye club. George M. Young president, George E. Branstup, secretary. Should have been Charles Young. Jamestown branch using error to counter charge against them. Local club this morning getting out letter postal employees rectifying error. Be sure thing is aired in Nonpartisan. Mighty unfortunate but we've taken the action that will fully explain to all who receive the letter with the unfortunate signature. It is perfectly clear from the language employed by the Legislature in drafting this section that only such electors as are absent from their county on election day may vote by means of the absent voter's ballot and if this were the only section dealing with the subject, there will be no difficulty whatever in holding that if the voter was present in his county on election day there would be no authority for the election board receiving his absent voter's ballot."

Another Section

"Section 1002, however, provides as follows:

"The provisions of this act shall be construed so as to permit any qualified elector of this state who is present in his county after the election has been held, and who has reasons to believe that he will be absent from such county on election day as before provided in Section 992, to vote before he leaves his county in like manner as absent voters, and any qualified elector who has marked his ballot as hereinbefore provided who shall unexpectedly return to his precinct before or on election day shall be permitted to vote in person, provided his ballot has not already been deposited in the ballot box."

"It thus will be seen that Section 1002 modifies in a degree the provision of Section 992, and under the latter section in certain circumstances, it is legal for the election board to receive an absent voter's ballot when as a matter of fact the voter himself is present in the county. . . . In order to construe both the sections above referred to so that each may receive a reasonable and practical operation, it is necessary that we limit the operation of Section 1002 to those specific instances where the elector has in fact left his county in pursuance of the expectation stated in his application for absent voter's ballot, but has unexpectedly returned to his county on or before election day, and it is the opinion of this office and we so hold that in those instances where the elector has secured and marked an absent voter's ballot in the expectation of leaving the county or the alleged expectation of leaving the county, but as a matter of fact never leaves the county, he is not entitled to have his absent voter's ballot deposited in the ballot box by the election officers, and that if such ballots are deposited and counted by the election board, the canvass of the same by the board will be ground for a contest of the election in that precinct."

Man Held Is Not Minot Yegg

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 29.—Harry Miller, awaiting trial by the Cass county district court in the county jail, on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, is not Harry Miller wanted by Sheriff A. S. Spicher of Minot for robbing several North Dakota banks, according to W. C. Macfadden, secretary of the North Dakota Bankers association.

A full description of the Miller wanted at Minot was sent by Sheriff Spicher to Mr. Macfadden.

Miller was arrested by Fargo police a week ago and on his person was found a number of tools, which, police say, are used by professional burglars.

ECONOMY IN SCHOOLS URGED

Consider Both Interests of
Pupil and Taxpayer,
Advice

"Careful spending, wise spending, thoughtful spending for schools, will result in better schools at less cost," Miss Bertha R. Palmer, nominee for state superintendent of public instruction, told the Parent-Teacher Association of McKenzie last night, urging cooperation between patrons and school officials to the end that both the interest of the pupils and the taxpayers may be served.

"Economy is an attitude of mind which must be cultivated," Miss Palmer said. "It cannot be enforced by law. It would be fine if we could have everything taught in our public schools and paid for from the public purse. But there is no such thing as public money, but only money which all of us put into a general fund that we may have as a community what we cannot have as individuals. This money and property should be held as personal trust and administered as such. There are as many ways to save on school expenses as there are in the home when it is necessary to spend less and make every dollar pay for a hundred cents worth."

Care of school property and utilizing the schools to the fullest extent by constant attendance by pupils were urged as methods of accomplishing economy in their conduct.

"Waste and inefficient business management must be condemned by public sentiment, which must also be aroused to the interest of the children not, however, overlooking the burden which the taxpayer must carry in addition to the schools," Miss Palmer said.

STATE MUSEUM OFFERS MANY FINE EXHIBITS

State Historical Society to
Display Relics of Pioneer
Life in State

TWO ROOMS OPENED

With the new Liberty Memorial Building on the state capitol grounds occupied, the North Dakota State Historical Society expects soon to be able to offer the public one of the finest museums in the Northwest.

The Museum, which occupies the top floor of the new building, has three large display rooms, the "Natural History Room," the "Indian Room," and the "Pioneer Room." The first two rooms have been occupied and exhibits now are being placed in the pioneer room, which will be the largest of the three.

An exceptionally fine and complete Indian display is already the property of the Historical Society, and it will be added to from time to time. Included among the exhibits are a relief of a typical Mandan Indian village, a skin boat used in crossing the Missouri River, an Indian ceremonial drum, ceremonial costumes and pictures. When the Indian exhibit is completed Curator L. F. Crawford believes it will be the finest in the Northwest.

The Natural History display consists of birds and mammals native to North Dakota. Many beautiful specimens of the taxidermist's art are offered in this room. Included among the exhibits is a great buffalo skin, mounted deer heads, a coyote, and wild cat. One of the most prized exhibits is that of two deer heads, with horns locked. The deer were found by Jefferson McDonald, rancher living northwest of Billings, according to the information in the hands of the Society. They were locked in death battle, one deer was dead and the other dying when found. Because of the remarkable interest shown in the exhibit, it was sent to the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo in 1901.

The Pioneer Room will contain exhibits of all kinds which preserve to this and coming generations objects depicting the methods of pioneer living in North Dakota. Many implements used on farms and ranches, which now are obsolete, will be included.

The space provided for the Museum will permit of expansion in the future. The cast from which the famous equestrian statue of Theodore Roosevelt, given to Portland, Oregon, by Dr. Henry Waldo Coe, will be placed in the new building.

MINOT PEDDLER ORDINANCE IS IN U. S. COURT

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 29.—The City of Minot was restrained from enforcing its ordinance for licensing solicitors until the termination of the suit by the Real Silk Hosiery company of Indianapolis against the city, according to an order granted by Judge Andrew Miller of Fargo in United States district court.

The case is triable in the Minot division during the term which will be held shortly after the first of the year.

Declaring that the measure "will unlawfully interfere with and burden interstate commerce" the Indianapolis organization contends that the measure will abridge their privileges and immunities and deprive them of liberty and property without due process of law. The hosiery mills sell their products through solicitors.

Under the ordinance all solicitors who receive a deposit in advance of delivery must post a surety bond with the city auditor, and must take out a license. The fee is $5 monthly and $12.50 quarterly for solicitors on foot and twice these amounts for those using vehicles.

The Fargo city commission is considering a similar ordinance.

Little Dakota Girl, Now An Orphan, Expresses Sorrow

gether. Last summer the family began to break up, the older sister and brother leaving home. Fanny was taken to Watford City, where she is attending school.

"I am very lonesome," she wrote a relative in Tuttle, "especially when it rains. I sit in my little room and look out through the window and cry for my dad and mother. I realize now what it means to be left without parents, and as the rain drops fall against the window pane, it seems as if the whole world were crying with me. And during these lonesome, rainy days I write my poems—poems that come from deep down in my heart from loneliness and longing for my daddy and mother."

Two Of Poems

Two of her poems follow:

MOTHER

Your dear little lady, old and gray,
And I can't help loving you more each day,
Your eyes are as blue as the blue above,
But they do not sparkle as in the days of love.
The roses from your cheeks have now faded away,
But your loveliness lingers as of yesterday,
Your dear little lady, old and gray,
And I can't help loving you more each day.

A REVERY

I'm sitting alone by a window
And the wind does softly blow,
I'm thinking again of my mother
And the days of long ago.

She enters the room so softly
And stands in back of my chair,
She tells me stories of long ago
While her hand caresses my hair.

The sun sinks lower and lower,
And finally it leaves the sky
And the room is left in darkness,
Save for the light in her eye.

She tells me how much she loves me
And the world does peaceful seem
But alas, I awake to find
It has only been a dream.

Then I feel forsaken and all alone,
Into mother's arms would creep,
But in a lonely little graveyard,
She is lying fast asleep.

But I must not weep or sigh or cry
Or show my anguish and woe
And smile though a tear be in my eye
For God has willed it be so.

My mother is an angel
And she sits on a throne above
With Daddy right there near her,
To tell her of his love.

And she, my mother darling,
Is so glad, so very near,
For she couldn't live when he left us,
Life for her was sad and dear.

So Daddy must have pleased with
The angels up above,
Until finally they consented
And sent to him his love.

But I'm lonesome down here mother

CHARGE FALSE USE OF NAME OF G. M. YOUNG

Stutsman Independent Headquarters Charges Fraud in Second District

A REPLY IS MADE

The Stutsman County Independent Campaign committee has issued a statement charging the LaFollette-Nye Club of Griggs county with trafficking in the name of George M. Young, former Congressman from the Second district, in an effort to bolster up the candidacy of Robert M. LaFollette and Gerald P. Nye in the Second district.

A letter was sent by the club to postal workers in the district. At the top of the letter the names of the club officers were given, Charles Young of Cooperstown being president. However the letter was signed George M. Young, president, and in the lower left-hand corner was a stenographer's mark, "GMY-K."

The Stutsman organization charged that the letter aimed at Thomas Hall was a forgery of the name of George M. Young.

Frazier's Answer

R. W. Frazier, in charge of the LaFollette-Wheeler headquarters here, in answer to the charges, made public the following telegram, which was dated October 27.

Cooperstown, N. D., Oct. 27, 1924.

John Bloom,
Bismarck, N. D.

Attention just called to fact that local headquarters Saturday addressed circular letter to all postal employees signed LaFollette-Nye club, George M. Young president, Charles E. Brastrup, secretary. Should have been Charles Young, Jamestown branch, using error as counter-charge against them. Local club this morning getting out letter postal employees rectifying error. Be sure thing is aired in Nonpartisan. Mighty unfortunate but we've taken the action that will fully explain to all who receive the letter with the unfortunate signature. Give readers full explanation.

AT THE MOVIES

CAPITOL

George O'Brien, the new William Fox star, whose unforgettable work in "The Man Who Came Back," endeared him to the motion picture fans of the world, is again coming in a featured role in "The Painted Lady" from Larry Evans' Saturday Evening Post story. This new Fox production will open a 3 day run at the Capitol theatre beginning Monday. As in his initial success Dorothy Mackall is playing opposite him in the title role.

"SINNERS IN HEAVEN"

The engagement of Hugh Rachdale and Barbara Stockley set the little English town of Darbury sizzling with pleasurable gossip. Every body purred contentedly over the satisfactory match. "They will make such a nice, respectable, young couple."

No one even vaguely suspected the truth.

A sense of duty had made Barbara consent to the engagement. She did not love Hugh. He was too dull, too stodgy, a poor substitute for the cavalier of her dreams. Barbara was sick of her narrow surroundings, bored to death with her conventional home life. She longed for freedom. She craved excitement. Her soul was starved for romance. She wanted to feel and experience life. Echoes of a jazz-mad world had filled her heart with strange, wild impulses.

With her wedding day four months off, Barbara grew desperately restless. If only she could satisfy her desires, taste a little happiness before marriage caged her in Darbury forever! To Mrs. Field, a worldly woman, her intimate friend, she poured out her innermost yearnings. That wise, understanding woman sympathized and promised to help her.

This entertaining story will be told in "Sinners in Heaven" which is being shown at the Eltinge Theatre today and Thursday. Bebe Daniels and Richard Dix are featured.

MINNESOTA'S CAMPAIGN

A tremendous campaign is being waged in Minnesota by the Republicans, intent on the one hand of defeating Magnus Johnson for Senator and on the other keeping the position of chief executive from the hands of the farmer-labor group. Thomas D. Schall, opponent of Magnus, and Theodore Christianson, the nominee for Governor, are waging strong fights, with the prediction being made that both will succeed.

The outstanding issue in Minnesota is public ownership. The Republican platform is explicit on this policy. It says: "The Republican Party stands now, as always, against all attempts to put the government into business."

The Farmer-Labor Party, on the other hand, in its convention at St. Cloud, declared for public ownership of railroads and public utilities, stockyards, grain elevators, terminal warehouses, and of such natural resources as coal, mineral deposits, water powers and timber.

The Minneapolis Journal says: "Theodore Christianson and his associates on the Republican ticket stand squarely on their platform. Floyd B. Olson and his associates on the Farmer-Labor ticket have taken their position, somewhat reluctantly, but in the end positively on the St. Cloud platform. They have been formally endorsed by the Socialist and Communist organizations. Thus the issue has been joined."

Public ownership has made little progress in Minnesota, but cooperative ownership, especially of creameries, has attained marked success there. The proponents of the Republican position will admit of no compromise and are satisfied of victory. The result in Minnesota will be watched with great interest.

A STRAINED CONSTRUCTION

Senator LaFollette, analyzing the depression of three years ago in a recent speech, charged that "Big Business" deliberately sought out to bring on panic. The Senator painted an appalling picture of bankrupted farmers, banks closed, millions out of employment. All this, he charged, was brought about deliberately.

If "Big Business" was responsible for the situation it acted in strange manner. The moneyed men ruined their best customers. They rendered their own money idle because it could not find profitable investment. They reduced the value of their own holdings. The business men whom Senator LaFollette charged with doing all of this nefarious work profited by national prosperity. Their wealth increases when the mills are busy, the farmers and workers prosperous and able to buy the things they want. If the money-changers referred to by the Senator were responsible for the situation he pictured they were bigger fools than they ever have been accused before of being.

WATCH THE FURNACE

About time to start the furnace. Insurance people ask us to pass this word along: Eighteen million dollars of property is destroyed every fall in America by fires resulting from defective flues and clogged chimneys.

Two things can be done. The best is to hire an expert to clean the vents. Second-best bet is to burn a piece of zinc in the furnace. It helps clean out the soot. So does an occasional tin can or potato peelings.

An enormous amount is the 200 million dollar loan, under the Dawes plan, expected to prop Germany on her financial feet again.

Americans lose more than twice as much every year, by fires. Fully three-fourths of fires are preventable. Be sure cigarette and cigar butts are extinguished. Don't leave oily rags around, except in tin cans with lids. They may start fires. And teach the children that the match is the most dangerous device ever invented.

The world now spends 200 million dollars a year for matches. Careless handling of matches starts many fires. The worst form of this carelessness is throwing a glowing match from a railroad car window. Countless forest fires start that way.

If people would be extremely careful with matches and camp fires, the forest-fire problem wouldn't amount to much. These fires are depleting our forests. They increase everybody's cost of living, for such losses eventually are buttered out over the whole population.

INTEREST

Big wars are always financed on a 5 per cent interest basis, an economist announces, lifting his tired head from the history of several centuries. And always, he finds, the return to normal peacetime conditions brings a gradual lowering of interest rates, stabilizing finally around 3 per cent.

That's happening now, history repeating. The day of cheap money is returning—for government, and probably for businesses and individual borrowers.

EZRA

Ezra Meeker, 94, who drove an ox team from Iowa to Seattle in 1852, recently went eastward over the trail in an airplane.

Public imagination is fired most by the change in speed—ox team 2 miles an hour, airplane 100.

We have gained the speed, all right. And we have lost considerable of the admirable character and patriotism of covered-wagon days. Progress has its price.

PLANTED

State of Vermont is planting 900,000 trees a year. This is done as a business venture, expected to yield a profitable lumber harvest later.

The reforestation problem is really a problem of making tree planting profitable. Anything with profits doesn't need much urging.

THE NEW TOKIO

(Portland Express)

Tokio, Japan, is a city that is becoming modernized by leaps and bounds, and it is said that people who visited it many years ago and who return to it now, hardly recognize some sections, so great has been the transformation from the oriental to the modern American.

Haberdasheries, drug stores, millinery parlors, candy stores, music stores, bakery and pastry shops, jewelry and curios, watches and clocks, stationery and book stores, now have window displays that would rival the best of the average American cities. The majority of them showing a great variety of exactly the same goods, even the same trade mark brand, flanked by the window trims furnished by the American manufacturer.

Few of the buildings in Tokio today are more than two stories high, and all are of temporary construction, as the government has not allowed any permanent work done the first year following the earthquake, but some remarkable things have been done in securing striking effects of stucco and other finishes which give splendid opportunities for individual touches to the different stores.

Inside, many of the stores are in striking contrast to the Japanese custom of having the entire stock of any article piled up in full view, apparently to impress you by sheer weight of numbers, and store fixtures of modern design are used to show off the goods in pleasing style. The shops give out very much the same impression one gets from the branch stores opened in pleasure resorts by the large establishments from the cities.

With this much accomplished in the "horrors" stage of Tokio's recovery, it is easy to see that the permanent construction of the city, which is now starting, will be along the most advanced lines.

"POP" GEERS

(New York World)

When early in the seventies "Pop" Geer began training horses in Tennessee, Budd Doble had not yet driven a goldsmith. The most noted track to her best record of 2:14, and only a few years before Dexter's name had become a household word. For over half a century the veteran driver who died Wednesday on the Wheeling track was one of the most famous figures of the trotting-turf and one of the greatest handlers and makers of champions. At 73, when he fell to his death in a race, he was the first of his reinsmen.

Geers was far on his way when the kid-shaped track first came into use. It was not until 1892 that the ball-bearing wheel, pneumatic tire, featherweight sulky was introduced as a substitute for the high-wheeled sulky of the days of Jay Eye-See and Maud S. That year Geers was to create a national sensation by driving Nancy Hanks in 2:04. For a long time there was a violent controversy over the use of shields and of pace-makers in establishing records.

It was Geers who drove The Abbot in the great race in which he beat Crescens. More than thirty years ago he drove Belle Hamilton, Justina and Globe of C. J. Hamilton's stable, hooked three abreast to a record of 2:14, which still stands. He lived to see Peter Manning trot a mile two years ago in 1:56 1/4 at Lexington. Like many of the old-timers, he held that mechanical improvements alone had added at least five seconds to the trotter's speed. Surely the man who had driven for fifty years trotters and pacers, many of them record-holders, spoke from a fund of experience that carried authority.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Daddy Gander and the Twins left the Green Wizard's house in the tree-tops to look for the House-That-Jack-Built.

"Good-bye," called the Green Wizard. "If everything comes out all right send me word."

"We will," they promised as they sailed away on Daddy Gander's dust-pan.

"There's Jack's house now!" cried Nancy. "Right there on that white cloud ahead of us."

"Why, so it is," declared Nick. "It looks as though the cloud had gotten inside and was sticking out of the windows."

"That's the ough that Mrs. John set to raise," said Daddy Gander. "Don't you remember? Mrs. John's bread-sponge kept raising until it raised the house clear off its foundation and carried it up to the sky."

Daddy Gander guided his dust-pan until it came right close up beside the house.

And who should come around the corner but Mother Goose on her broom.

"Hello, Daddy," cried Mother Goose. "I thought I left you at home to look after things while I was away. And what's this house doing up here and what's all this stuff sticking out of the windows?"

Daddy Gander told her the whole story then, how poor Jack and Jill and Mrs. John had no place to live and all about the bread sponge and everything.

"A pretty kettle of fish!" cried Mother Goose, giving the handle of her broom a jab through the window right into the dough.

"You mean a pretty panful of bread," laughed Nancy. "But it won't do any good to poke it unless you have the magic fork. That is the only thing that will let the air out so the house can go down."

"The magic fork!" cried Mother Goose. "The magic fork! Where have I heard about that recently. I heard someone saying:

"Oh magic fork, I'd like a treat. Please send what you can find to eat."

"Yes, yes, yes! That's it!" cried the Twins. "Can't you remember more? Oh, do try to think where it was."

Mother Goose thought and thought.

"Let me see," she said. "I was sweeping a dusty cloud right over a mountain top in—Oh, I know. It was Yum Yum Land. Yes, that was where I heard of the magic fork. It was in Yum Yum Land."

"Where is Yum Yum Land?" asked Geers.

"Well, find it, never fear!" said Daddy Gander. "My magic dust-pan can find anything. We'll be starting right away. Don't wait supper for me, Mother Goose, go right ahead and eat when you get it ready. I may be late."

"All right, Daddy," said Mother Goose. "I think the sky looks clean now and I'm going home and see if I can't do something for Jack and Jill and Mrs. John. Good-bye."

She rode away in one direction on her broom, and Daddy Gander and the Twins rode away in the opposite direction on the magic dust-pan to find Yum Yum Land.

Pretty soon, in about an hour and sixty-five minutes, at half past a quarter to one, they saw Yum Yum Land far below them.

Away behind, still sitting on its cloud, could be seen the House-That-Jack-Built.

After Karl and Joan had gone to carry out mother's charitable idea, I went up to her room and found her sitting behind the window with her hands folded in her lap, and with such a look of utter loneliness upon her face that I hastened to put my arms around her and tell her that John and I were going to always try to carry out her wishes, and that he and Karl had already gone to bring some comfort to that other woman, who had buried not only her love and her hopes, but probably her only support.

"I do hope he will find her, Leslie, and tell her I will defray all the funeral expenses."

"Her will, dearest," I answered. "Shortly she began to talk to me about her life with my father. She told me of an evening when she had been sitting with him a week or two before. After they had been silent quite a while and she thought he was asleep, he reached out and clasped her hand, and whispered: 'Alice, I'm afraid I'm not going to get well.'"

"I said to him, Leslie," she explained, "that he must not think of anything like that, and he, to comfort me, said: 'Well, we might as well think about it a little, even if I do get well.'"

"Alice," he said after a little hesitation, "I wonder if you know that you have always been the real lodestar of my existence? I have worked for your approval, and played for your pleasure. I have spent what I have earned only to make you happy; and, my dear, I want you to remember, after I am gone, that all through our long life together, what you have said and what you have done has been perfectly right in my eyes. I would not have had you changed one iota, wife of mine!"

"I'm not afraid to die. I have always felt that if there be a God, he is love, and he approves of everything I have done. I don't know, Alice dear, whether it is in eternal oblivion or eternal life, but having lived as well as I know how, having tried to rectify my mistakes and to be humble in my successes, and having done what I could to make others happy always, whether it be the end of all or the beginning of another and more glorious existence, I will take my chance."

To tell me this seemed to comfort mother a great deal, and she kept talking on, telling me of episodes and events in her and father's life. I let her ramble on, for in my mind, Ruth, I knew I was going to try and have her bury all this in her heart after today. I do not believe that any woman can be happy by living in the past.

In a little while Karl and Jack came back, having found the woman and told her that mother would pay all the funeral expenses. This was a great surprise to her. She confided to them that she had not known what she was going to do; that the insurance upon her husband's life was a thousand dollars, and she had spent practically all of it for the funeral.

"After this week," she said, "I would have been obliged to send my children to a home, but I would not have anyone think that I did not love my man, or that I would fail in respect to his memory."

Isn't that pathetic? Why must we gauge all our sense of right and wrong by what people say of us? (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

EVERETT TRUE

BY CONDO

HOW IT STARTED BACK YONDER

By Albert Apple

Pins, invented about 600 years ago by some unknown genius, at first were very expensive. Only the rich could really afford them. But poor women, delighted with the usefulness of pins, bought them with money intended to run the household. So a law was passed, allowing makers to sell pins only on Jan. 1 and 2. Women saved up for these days the rest of the year. So we have the phrase, "pin money," its meaning altered by time.

Other interesting origins are recounted by Lillian Eichler in her new book, "The Customs of Mankind."

The barber's red-and-white-striped pole dates back to days when the barber performed minor surgical operations, including "blood letting." He kept his white bandages hanging on a pole. Finally, as an ad, he put the red-white-striped pole in front of his shop to symbolize blood-soaked bandages.

Tipping also started with barbers. For bleeding and other small surgical services they had no set charges, but left payment to the customer. In England others took up the custom. Soon a box appeared in taverns with a sign, "To Insure Promptness." The initials: T-I-P, tip.

"Windfall" means good luck. It started nearly 1000 years ago when William the Conqueror made it a criminal offense for English peasants to cut forest timber. They could have only what the wind blew down. A big storm brought a lucky haul of wood—a windfall.

Ancient Chinese tortured prisoners by tickling the naked soles of their feet with straws. So started the expression, "tickled to death."

The situation has not changed since it was recorded in Ecclesiastes: "That which hath been is the same which will be; and that which hath been done is the same which will be done; and there is nothing new under the sun."

As for Lillian Eichler's book, it is the latest of the chair started by H. G. Wells' "Outline of History." And it is decidedly more interesting. As for importance, it is debatable whether the history of wars and political movements is as consequential as an understanding of the origins of customs, games, manners, fashions and superstitions.

The kiss, an occidental invention, has had more influence than all rulers and armies combined.

The New York, Oct. 29.—Walter Damrosch is entering upon his fortieth season as conductor of the New York Symphony Orchestra. Damrosch has conducted 2000 scores with an average of five to a concert. That is a total of 20,000 pieces played under his direction.

Do these sound like dry statistics? If they do, picture yourself swinging a baton for 24,000 hours.

The New York Symphony was founded by Damrosch's father, Leopold Damrosch, in 1878. It visited Europe in 1920, playing in France, Italy, Belgium, Holland and England. It will go to Cuba next January upon invitation of the government.

Damrosch in his 40 years with the orchestra has traveled 400,000 miles. In that time his organization has played to eight million people.

Sitting on a bench beneath the clock in the Times Square subway station was an old man, grizzled, ragged and dirty.

He steps below him express and local trains were rumbling and grinding as they stopped and started.

It was the mad rush hour of the evening. Thousands were hurrying and scurrying past the old fellow, at times almost knocking the book from his hand. It was a poor place for romance.

I rubbed to see what book could so hold a man's attention. It was "Within These Walls," by Rupert Hughes.

Five years ago Richard Gaffney returned home to the tenement at 229 Avenue C, a bed-ridden invalid. His wife was suffering with cancer, but she went out to scrub floors and work in laundries.

The other day the old man and his wife were found together in the bed, dead. All the gas jets in the room were on.

When the patrolman arrived there also arrived Henry Nacey with $200, a sick benefit fund from the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers. The postman on his next trip brought a letter from a niece in Chicago offering help.

Miss Clara Stutz, 35, was killed under a subway train when she was crowded off the platform of the East Side line at Fourteenth street.

She was the sole support of her mother and invalid sister. She taught a Sunday School class in St. George's Church, of which J. Pierpont Morgan is a member.

FABLES ON HEALTH

THE SCHEDULE

Many parents keep a daily schedule to be followed by their children and thus prepare them for greater regularity of life in later years.

The Jones family wasn't particularly strict in such matters, and this is typical of a great many families.

A program laid out by certain school organizations is as follows:

7 a. m.—Rise, bathe, drink glass of water, clean the teeth. Setting-up exercises, if desired.

7:30—Breakfast. Wash hands. Do chores about house. Proceed to school at 8:30 to 9. During morning recess drink at least one glass of water and get outdoor exercise if weather permits.

1 p. m.—Noon meal. Drink more water and wash hands and face. Follow this by rest. Don't be too eager to play right after eating.

2 to 3:30—Begin afternoon play. For older children this hour is extended to 3:30 or 4, as school closes later. Take a mid-afternoon lunch of fruit and take another glass of water.

5:30 to 6:30—Evening meal. Clean teeth right after eating. Play home games or study and get to bed early. Either bathe or carefully wash face and hands.

ard. The loss of the title records of the register of deeds, clerk of court, treasurer and county court would be something that no amount of money could replace.

I shall vote "yes" not on account of the building being unsanitary, which it is, not on account of the officers being obliged to work in ill-lighted rooms, with lack of space and ventilation, which is a fact, but on the single ground that it is poor business to run the risk of having our records swept away by fire, as they are liable to be. If the officers do not wish to work under the present conditions, they can step out; there is no law that compels them to tarry a single day in their present quarters. But I am interested in the public records, which the law compels to be kept in the present building. No business man on earth would keep his personal matters in vaults like the county records of Burleigh keeps its citizens.

In my judgment the commissioners are to be commended in placing the matter on the ballot. If you wish the present inadequate and flimsy vaults to house your titles, vote against a new court house; if you think you are interested in having your records preserved, vote for the proposition. I regard it as a business matter pure and simple.

R. D. HOSKINS.

Unique Hallow'en Event For 50 Guests

One of the most unique Hallow'en parties of the season was that given last evening by the Misses Hazel Pearce, Rose Huber, Clara Schroeder and Margaret White at the Huber home.

A big black witch and a little red devil met all the guests at the gate of the Huber home and escorted them to the loft of the roomy barn on the Huber place. Spooks peered out at vantage places and the route up a dark stairway to the softly lighted and decorated loft added to the "spookiness".

The loft was decorated in real Hallow'en style with red lanterns, witches, cats, corn stocks and seats made out of baled hay. Booths were fashioned in autumn style and the guests wore hard time costumes as well as specialty costumes. There were fortune tellers, games, dancing, music and other diversions suitable to the occasion.

A fine course luncheon was served and here again the manner of serving was worked out in a most unique style; dishes pinned on rope, doughnuts were on sticks with a witch to serve them.

There were fifty guests. Misses Christine Huber, Irene Anderson, Hilda Gustafson, Emma Pearce and Gladys Pearce assisted.

League of Women Voters Hold Meet

The League of Women Voters held their second meeting in the assembly of the high school last evening. Mrs. Duham, the president, called the meeting to order. Community singing was led by Miss Bessie Baldwin, with Mrs. J. L. Hughes at the piano.

C. C. Converse, Tax Commissioner, gave an interesting talk on the initiated tax measure which will be voted on at the November 4 election. He brought out the fact that the veterans bonus, and county school tuition are not included in this reduction and that if the law is passed and the schools lack funds more can be appropriated through the county tuition fund. It is impossible to legislate for exceptions, said Mr. Converse, but the general good of all must be taken into consideration. The initiated law can be amended or repealed by a two thirds vote of the legislature, and therefore should the measure prove unsatisfactory, the legislature could take such steps as would eliminate the trouble. In concluding, Mr. Converse showed that there are always ways and means of overcoming the bad effects of any measure.

Miss Bessie Baldwin rendered a solo, Land of Hope and Glory by Elgar, with Mrs. J. L. Hughes at the piano.

Mrs. C. B. Whitley read the minutes of the last meeting and the meeting was adjourned until the next meeting which will take place some time in November, and will be announced later.

Girl Scouts Taught To Be Housewives

Learn to Conduct Kitchen on Budget and Still Serve Excellent Meals

JUNIOR COUNCILOR AS STOREKEEPER AT CAMP ANDREE, WHERE THE GIRL SCOUTS LEARN TO MAKE ENDS MEET ON A $-A-WEEK BUDGET.

BY MARIAN HALE
NEA Service Writer

New York, Oct. 29. The Girl Scout movement was organized with the idea of giving girls a chance to get acquainted with the great outdoors and make them physically fit.

But camp life revealed a need to get acquainted with the great American kitchen as well as the woods, and first pies as well as first aid.

So Camp Andree, at Briarcliffe Manor, N. Y., one of the largest camps in the country, is being maintained purely to produce a race of future housekeepers.

A part of every girl's training there is to provide 21 meals for a tent full of hungry girls with just $5 per girl to do it with.

And menus must be varied enough and the meals contain the proper number of calories to suit the demands of the camp.

Besides the cooking and marketing, the girls must chop the wood for the camp stoves, make their own tables and benches out of logs, construct racks for their food and wash up the dishes and scrub the pans.

Here are some of the menus the girls have worked out at an average of about 25 cents a meal:

MONDAY

Breakfast: Stewed Peaches, Bran Flakes, Buttered Toast, Milk, Cocoa.
Lunch: Creamed Asparagus on Toast, Bread and Butter, Milk.

Unique Hallowe'en Event For 50 Guests

One of the most unique Hallowe'en parties of the season was that given last evening by the Misses Hazel Pearce, Rose Huber, Clara Schroeder and Margaret White at the Huber home.

A big black witch and a little red devil met all the guests at the gate of the Huber home and escorted them to the loft of the roomy barn on the Huber place. Spooks peered out at vantage places and the route up a dark stairway to the softly lighted and decorated loft added to the "spookiness".

The loft was decorated in real Hallowe'en style with red lanterns, witches, cats, corn stalks and seats made out of baled hay. Booths were fashioned in autumn style and the guests wore hard time costumes as well as specialty costumes. There were fortune tellers, games, dancing, music and other diversions suitable to the occasion.

A fine course luncheon was served and here again the manner of serving was worked out in a most unique style; dishes pinned on rope, doughnuts were on sticks with a witch to serve them.

There were fifty guests. Misses Christine Huber, Irene Anderson, Hilda Gustafson, Emma Pearce and Gladys Pearce assisted.

PROGRESSIVE MOTHERS CLUB MEETS

The Progressive Mothers Club met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Svarren. Roll call was answered to by favorite quotations from the bible. Mrs. W. J. Music and stunts furnished the entertainment for the evening. Fall flowers were used artistically in decorations. A delightful lunch was served at the close of the evening.

ENTERTAINS AT HALLOWEEN PARTY

Girl Scouts Taught To Be Housewives

Learn to Conduct Kitchen on Budget and Still Serve Excellent Meals

JUNIOR COUNCILOR AS STOREKEEPER AT CAMP ANDREE, WHERE THE GIRL SCOUTS LEARN TO MAKE ENDS MEET ON A $5-A-WEEK BUDGET.

BY MARIAN HALE
NEA Service Writer

New York, Oct. 29.—The Girl Scout movement was organized with the idea of giving girls a chance to get acquainted with the great outdoors and make them physically fit. But camp life revealed a need to get acquainted with the great American kitchen as well as the woods, and first pies as well as first aid.

So Camp Andree, at Briarcliffe Manor, N. Y., one of the largest camps in the country, is being maintained purely to produce a race of future housekeepers.

A part of every girl's training there is to provide 21 meals for a tent full of hungry girls with just $5 per girl to do it with.

And menus must be varied enough and the meals contain the proper number of calories to suit the demands of the camp physician.

Besides the cooking and marketing, the girls must chop the wood for the camp stoves, make their own tables and benches out of logs, construct racks for their food and wash up the dishes and scour the pans.

Here are some of the menus the girls have worked out at an average of about 25 cents a meal:

THE GIVERS

(By Florence Borner)

"I bring forth light," said the dazzling Sun, "Each morning before the day's begun, I bask myself in eternal fires, And learn the lesson which Time inspires; This world would be a darksome place, Did I not show my smiling face."

"Not so, not so," said a tiny Star, "I bring glad light from the lands afar; When you retire my cheery spark, Lights up the places that were dark; The world would be a cheerless place, Were I to hide by twinkling face."

"Oh, is that so?" asked Mr. Moon, "I did not come a bit too soon; For, sure my round and shining face, Puts little stars out of the race; And, Mr. Sun's a sleepy-head, Each evening he must go to bed."

"Oh, foolish ones," an angel cried, "Why must your hearts be swelled with pride? For, know yet not that each of you, Must do the task he's set to do? And each successful in his space, Helps make the World a happy place."

MINNESOTA'S CAMPAIGN
A tremendous campaign is being waged in Minnesota by the Republicans, intent on the one hand of defeating Magnus Johnson for Senator and on the other keeping the position of chief executive from the hands of the farmer-labor group. Thomas D. Schall, opponent of Magnus, and Theodore Christianson, the nominee for Governor, are waging strong fights, with the prediction being made that both will succeed.

The outstanding issue in Minnesota is public ownership. The Republican platform is explicit on this policy. It says: "The Republican Party stands now, as always, against all attempts to put the government into business."

The Farmer-Labor Party, on the other hand, in its convention at St. Cloud, declared for public ownership of railroads and public utilities, stockyards, grain elevators, terminal warehouses, and of such natural resources as coal, mineral deposits, water powers and timber.

The Minneapolis Journal says: "Theodore Christianson and his associates on the Republican ticket stand squarely on their platform. Floyd B. Olson and his associates on the Farmer-Labor ticket have taken their position, somewhat reluctantly, but in the end positively on the St. Cloud platform. They have been formally endorsed by the Socialist and Communist organizations. Thus the issue has been joined."

Public ownership has made little progress in Minnesota, but cooperative ownership, especially of creameries, has attained marked success there. The proponents of the Republican position will admit of no compromise and are satisfied of victory. The result in Minnesota will be watched with great interest.

A STRAINED CONSTRUCTION
Senator LaFollette, analyzing the depression of three years ago in a recent speech, charged that "Big Business" deliberately sought about to bring on panic. The Senator painted an appalling picture of bankrupted farmers, banks closed, millions out of employment. All this, he charged, was brought about deliberately.

If "Big Business" was responsible for the situation it acted in strange manner. The moneyed men ruined their best customers. They rendered their own money idle because it could not find profitable investment. They reduced the value of their own holdings. The business men whom Senator LaFollette charged with doing all of this nefarious work profited by national prosperity. Their wealth increases when the mills are busy, the farmers and workers prosperous and able to buy the things they want. If the money-changers referred to by the Senator were responsible for the situation he pictured they were bigger fools than they ever have been accused before of being.

WATCH THE FURNACE
About time to start the furnace. Insurance people ask us to pass this word along: Eighteen million dollars of property is destroyed every fall in America by fires resulting from defective flues and clogged chimneys.
Two things can be done. The best is to hire an expert to clean the vents. Second-best bet is to burn a piece of zinc in the furnace. It helps clean out the soot. So does an occasional tin can or potato peelings.

An enormous amount is the 200 million dollar loan under the Dawes plan, expected to prop Germany on her financial feet again.

Americans lose more than twice as much every year by fires. Fully three-fourths of fires are preventable. Be sure cigarette and cigar butts are extinguished. Don't leave oily rags around, except in tin cans with lids. They may start fires. And teach the children that the match is the most dangerous device ever invented.

The world now spends 200 million dollars a year for matches. Careless handling of matches starts many fires. The worst form of this carelessness is throwing a glowing match from a railroad car window. Countless forest fires start that way.

If people would be extremely careful with matches and camp fires, the forest-fire problem wouldn't amount to much. These fires are depleting our forests. They increase everybody's cost of living, for such losses eventually are buttered out over the whole population.

INTEREST
Big wars are always financed on a 5 per cent interest basis, an economist announces, lifting his tired head from the history of several centuries. And always, he finds, the return to normal peacetime conditions brings a gradual lowering of interest rates, stabilizing finally around 3 per cent. That's happening now, history repeating. The day of cheap money is returning—for government, and probably for businesses and individual borrowers.

EZRA
Ezra Meeker, 94, who drove an ox team from Iowa to Seattle in 1852, recently went eastward over the trail in an airplane.

Public imagination is fired most by the change in speed—ox team 2 miles an hour, airplane 100.

We have gained the speed, all right. And we have lost considerable of the admirable character and patriotism of covered-wagon days. Progress has its price.

PLANTED
State of Vermont is planting 900,000 trees a year. This is done as a business venture, expected to yield a profitable lumber harvest later.

The reforestation problem is really a problem of making tree planting profitable. Anything with profits doesn't need much urging.

THE NEW TOKIO

(Portland Express)
Tokio, Japan, is a city that is becoming modernized by leaps and bounds, and it is said that people who visited it many years ago and who return to it now, hardly recognize some sections, so great has been the transformation from the oriental to the modern American.

Hardware stores, drug stores, millinery parlors, candy stores, music stores, jewelry and watch shops, stationery and book stores, now have window displays that would rival the best of the average American cities, the majority of them showing a great many of exactly the same goods, even the same trade mark brand, flanked by the window trims furnished by the American manufacturer.

Few of the buildings in Tokio today are more than two stories high, and all are of temporary construction, as the government has not allowed any permanent work done the first year following the earthquake, but some remarkable things have been done in securing striking effects in stucco and other finishes which give splendid opportunities for individual touches to the different stores.

In striking contrast to the Japanese custom of having the entire stock of any article piled up in full view, apparently to impress you by sheer weight of numbers, and store fixtures of modern design are used to show off the goods in pleasing style. The shops give one very much the same impression one gets from the branch stores opened in pleasure resorts by the large establishments from the cities.

With this much accomplished in the "harracks" stage of Tokio's recovery, it is easy to be seen that the permanent construction of the city, which is now starting, will be along the most advanced lines.

"POP" GEERS

(New York World)
When early in the seventies "Pop" Geer began training horses in Tennessee, Budd Doble had not yet driven Goldsmith Maid on a Boston track to her best record of 2:14, and only a few years before Dexter's name had become a household word. For over half a century the veteran driver who died Wednesday on the Wheeling track was to be one of the most famous figures of the trotting-turf and one of the greatest handlers and makers of champions. At 73, when he fell to his death in a race, he was the first of his reinmen.

Geers was far on his way when the kite-shaped track first came into use. It was not until 1892 that the half-wheeling wheel, pneumatic tire, featherweight sulky was introduced as a substitute for the high-wheeled sulky of the days of Jay-Eye-See and Mud S. That year Geers was to create a national sensation by driving Nancy Hanks in 2:04. For a long time there was a violent controversy over the use of sulkeys and of pace-makers in establishing records.

It was Geers who drove The Abbot in the great race in which he beat Crexus. More than thirty years ago he drove Belle Hamilton and Globe of C. J. Hamlin's stable, hooked three abreast to a record of 2:14, which still stands. He lived to see Peter Manning trot a mile two years ago in 1:56 1/2 at Lexington. Like many of the old-timers, he held that mechanical innovations alone had added at least five seconds to the trotter's speed. Surely the man who had driven for fifty years' trotters and pacers, many of them record-holders, spoke from a fund of experience that carried authority.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Daddy Gander and the Twins left the Green Wizard's house in the tree-tops to look for the House-That-Jack-Built.

"Good-bye," called the Green Wizard. "If everything comes out all right send me word."

"We will," they promised as they sailed away on Daddy Gander's dust-pan.

"There's Jack's house now!" cried Nancy. "Right there on that white cloud ahead of us."

"Why, so it is," declared Nick. "It looks as though the cloud had gotten inside and was sticking out of the windows."

"That's the dough that Mrs. John set to raise," said Daddy Gander. "Don't you remember? Mrs. John's bread-ponge kept raising until it raised the house clear off its foundation and carried it up to the sky."

Daddy Gander guided his dust-pan until it came right close up beside the house.

And who should come around the corner but Mother Goose on her broom.

"Hello, Daddy," cried Mother Goose. "I thought I left you at home to look after things while I was away. And what's this house doing up here and what's all this stuff sticking out of the windows?"

Daddy Gander told her the whole story then, how poor Jack and Jill and Mrs. John had no place to live and all about the bread-ponge and everything.

"A pretty kettle of fish!" cried Mother Goose, giving the handle of her broom a jab through the window right into the dough.

"You mean a pretty panful of bread," laughed Nancy. "But it won't do any good to poke it unless you have the magic fork. That is the only thing that will let the air out so the house can go down."

"The magic fork!" cried Mother Goose. "The magic fork! Where have I heard about that recently. I heard someone saying:

"Oh magic fork, I'd like a treat. Please see what you can find to eat."

"Yes, yes, yes! That's it!" cried the Twins. "Can't you remember more? Oh, do try to think where it was."

Mother Goose thought and thought.

"Let me see," she said. "I was sweeping a dusty cloud right over a mountain top in—oh, I know. It was Yum Yum Land. Yes, that was where I heard of the magic fork. It was in Yum Yum Land."

"Where is Yum Yum Land?" asked Nancy.

"We'll find it, never fear!" said Daddy Gander. "My magic dust-pan can find anything. We'll be starting right away. Don't wait supper for me, Mother Goose, go right ahead and eat when you get it ready. I may be late."

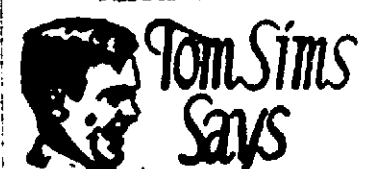

"All right, Daddy," said Mother Goose. "I think the sky looks clean now and I'm going home and see if I can't do something for Jack and Jill and Mrs. John. Good-bye."

She rode away in one direction on her broom, and Daddy Gander and the Twins rode away in the opposite direction on the magic dust-pan to find Yum Yum Land.

Pretty soon, in about an hour and sixty-five minutes, at half past a quarter to one, they saw Yum Yum Land far below them.

Away behind, still sitting on its cloud, could be seen the House-That-Jack-Built.

HOW IT STARTED BACK YONDER

By Albert Apple

Pins, invented about 600 years ago by some unknown genius, at first were very expensive. Only the rich could really afford them. But poor women, delighted with the usefulness of pins, bought them with money intended to run the household. So a law was passed, allowing makers to sell pins only on Jan. 1 and 2. Women saved up for these days the rest of the year. So we have the phrase, "pin money," its meaning altered by time.

Other interesting origins are recounted by Lillian Eichler in her new book, "The Customs of Mankind." The barber's red-and-white-striped pole dates back to days when the barber performed minor surgical operations, including "blood letting." He kept his white bandages hanging on a pole. Finally, as an ad, he put the red-white-striped pole in front of his shop to symbolize blood-soaked bandages.

Tipping also started with barbers. For bleeding and other small surgical services they had no set charges, but left payment to the customer. In England others took up the custom. Soon a box appeared in taverns with a sign, "To Insure Promptness." The initials: T-I-P, tip.

"Windfall" means good luck. It started nearly 1000 years ago when William the Conqueror made it a criminal offense for English peasants to cut forest timber. They could have only what the wind blew down. A big storm brought a lucky haul of wood—a windfall.

Ancient Chinese tortured prisoners by tickling the naked soles of their feet with straws. So started the expression, "tickled to death."

The situation has not changed since it was recorded in Ecclesiastes: "That which hath been is the same which will be; and that which hath been done is the same which will be done; and there is nothing new under the sun."

As for Lillian Eichler's book, it is the latest of the chair started by H. G. Wells' "Outline of History." And it is decidedly more interesting. As for importance, it is debatable whether the history of wars and political movements is as consequential as an understanding of the origins of customs, games, manners, fashions and superstitions.

The kiss, an accidental invention, has had more influence than all rulers and armies combined.

The Tangle

After Karl and Joan had gone to carry out mother's charitable idea, I went up to her room and found her sitting beside the window with her hands folded in her lap, and with such a look of utter loneliness upon her face that I hastened to put my arms around her and tell her that Joan and I were going to always try to carry out her wishes, and that he and Karl had already gone to bring some comfort to that other woman, who had buried not only a love and her hopes, but probably her only support.

"I do hope he will find her, Leslie, and tell her I will defray all the funeral expenses."

"He will, I am sure," I answered. "Shortly she began to talk to me about her life with us father's life. I told her of an evening when she had been sitting with him a week or two before. After they had been silent quite a while and she thought he was asleep, he reached out and clasped her hand, and whispered: 'Alice, I'm afraid I'm not going to get well.'"

"I said to him, 'Leslie,' she explained, 'that he must not think of anything like that, and he, to comfort me, said: 'Well, we might as well think about it a little, even if I do get well.'"

"Alice," he said after a little hesitation, "I wonder if you know that you have always been the real lodestar of my existence? I have worked for your approval, and played for your pleasure. I have spent what I have earned only to make you happy; and, my dear, I want you to remember, after I am gone, that all through our long life together, what you have said and what you have done has been perfectly right in my eyes. I would not have had you changed one iota, wife of mine!"

"I'm not afraid to die. I have always felt that if there be a God, he is love, and he approves of everything I have done. I don't know Alice dear, whether it is in eternal oblivion or eternal life, but having lived as well as I know how, having tried to rectify my mistakes and to be humble in my successes, and having done what I could to make others happy always, whether it be the end of all or the beginning of another and more glorious existence, I will take my chance."

To tell me this seemed to comfort mother a great deal, and she kept talking on, telling me of episodes and events in her and father's life. I let her ramble on, for in my mind, I knew I was going to try and have her bury all this in her heart after today. I do not believe that any woman can be happy by living in the past.

In a little while Karl and Jack came back, having found the woman and told her that mother would pay all the funeral expenses. This was a great surprise to her. She confided to them that she had not known what she was going to do; that the insurance upon her husband's life was a thousand dollars, and she had spent practically all of it for the funeral.

"After this week," she said, "I would have been obliged to send my children to a home, but I would not have anyone think that I did not love my man, or that I would fail in respect to his memory."

"Isn't that pathetic? Why must we gauge all our sense of right and wrong by what people say of us?"

Damrosch has conducted 2000 scores with an average of five to a concert. That is a total of 20,000 pieces played under his direction.

Do these sound like dry statistics? If they do, picture yourself swinging a baton for 24,000 hours.

The New York Symphony was founded by Damrosch's father, Leopold Damrosch, in 1878. It visited Europe in 1920, playing in France, Italy, Belgium, Holland and England.

He will go to Cuba next January upon invitation of the government.

Damrosch in his 40 years of the orchestra has traveled 400,000 miles. In that time his organization has played to eight million people.

Sitting on a bench beneath the clock in the Times Square subway station was an old man, grizzled, ragged and dirty.

Ten steps below him express and local trains were rumbling and grinding as they stopped and grinding. It was the mad rush hour of the evening. Thousands were hurrying and scurrying past the old fellow, at times almost knocking the book from his hand. It was a poor place for romance.

I rubbed to see what book could so hold a man's attention. It was "Within These Walls," by Rupert Hughes.

Five years ago Richard Gaffney returned home to the tenement at 229 Avenue C, a bed-ridden invalid. His wife was suffering with cancer, but she went out to scrub floors and work in laundries.

The other day the old man and his wife were found together in the bed. dead. All the gas jets in the room were on.

When the patrolman arrived there also arrived Henry Nacey with $200, a sick benefit fund from the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers. The postman on his next trip brought a letter from a niece in Chicago offering help.

Miss Clara Stutz, 36, was killed under a subway train when she was crowded off the platform of the East Side line at Fourteenth street. She was the sole support of her mother and invalid sister. She taught a Sunday School class in St. George's Church, of which J. Pierpont Morgan is a member.

FABLES ON HEALTH

THE SCHEDULE

Many parents keep a daily schedule to be followed by their children and thus prepare them for greater regularity of life in later years.

The Jones family wasn't particularly attentive to such matters and this is typical of a great many families.

A program laid out by certain school organizations is as follows:

7 a. m.—Rise, bathe, drink glass of water, clean the teeth. Setting-up exercises, if desired.

7:30—Breakfast. Wash hands. Do chores about house. Proceed to school at 8:30 to 9. During morning recess drink at least one glass of water and get outdoor exercise if weather permits.

1 p. m.—Noon meal. Drink more water and wash hands and face. Follow this by rest. Don't be too eager to play right after eating.

2 to 2:30—Begin afternoon play. For older children this hour is extended to 3:30 or 4, as school closes later. Take a mid-afternoon lunch of fruit and take another glass of water.

5:30 to 6:30—Evening meal. Clean teeth right after eating. Play home games or study and get to bed early. Either bathe or carefully wash face and hands.

ard. The loss of the title records of the register of deeds, clerk of court, treasurer and county court would be something that no amount of money could replace.

I shall vote "yes" not on account of the building being unsanitary, which it is, not on account of the officers being obliged to work in ill lighted rooms, with lack of space and ventilation, which is a fact, but on the single ground that it is poor business to risk the loss of having our records swept away by fire, as they are liable to be. If the officers do not wish to work under present conditions, they can step out; there is no law that compels them to tarry a single day in their present quarters. But I am interested in the public records, which the law compels to be kept in the present building. No business man on earth would keep his personal matters in vaults like the county of Burleigh affords its citizens.

In my judgment the commissioners are to be commended in placing the matter on the ballot. If you wish the present inadequate and filthy vaults to house your titles, vote against a new court house; if you think you are interested in having your records preserved, vote for the proposition. I regard it as a business matter, pure and simple.

COLUMBIA TO KEEP PLAYING

Decision Is Reached to Carry on Football Schedule

New York, Oct. 29.—Columbia will close her gridiron ranks and carry on the 1924 football campaign in spite of the stunning and unexpected blow sustained by the death of head coach Percy D. Haughton.

This was decided by university athletic authorities, who announced that the game at Ithaca next Saturday with Cornell, as well as those with New York university, Army and Syracuse would be played as scheduled.

At the same time, Dr. Paul C. Whittington, former Harvard player and first assistant at Columbia to Haughton, was appointed head coach for the rest of the season.

The entire university was plunged into mourning by the loss of Haughton just as it seemed that the Blue and White, crushing Williams last Saturday, was about to lead Columbia out of the gridiron wilderness.

TOURNAMENT WILL SELECT NEW CHAMPION

New York, Oct. 29.—The opening round of an elimination tournament to determine a successor to Johnny Dundee as world's featherweight champion, will be held at Madison Square Garden, Nov. 21, with 6 contenders appearing in 3 10-round bouts, the state athletic commission announced.

The six contenders are Louis "Kid" Kaplan, of Meriden, Conn.; Bobby Garcia of Camp Holabird, Md.; Lou Paluso, of Salt Lake City; Mike Dundee, of Rock Island, Ill.; Denny Kramer, of Philadelphia, and Jose Lombardo, of Panama.

Managers of these boxers will be given until next Friday to accept or reject the commission's proposal, at which time drawings probably will be made for the bouts. Subsequent elimination will determine the fighters eligible to recognition as world's champion by the New York ring body.

FIGHT FANS BUNKED BY GAMBLERS?

New York, Oct. 29.—Only rumors connecting smart gamblers with the recent knockout of Mike Balterino by Kid Sullivan, junior lightweight champion, refuse to down.

This is due to the inexplicable and illogical manner in which the odds on the outcome of the bout were juggled around.

Two days before the fight Balterino was the favorite to win on points, and many wagers at adequate odds were made that Balterino would score a knockout.

On the day of the fight the betting changed to even money. Two hours before the men climbed into the ring Sullivan was installed as a heavy favorite. Not only that but bets were freely offered that Sullivan would win by a knockout.

In many cases Sullivan backers offered odds their man would win by a knockout.

To cap the climax one of the biggest gamblers in the east began to bleed the arena with bets that Balterino would not come up for the sixth round.

And that's exactly what happened. Sullivan, never a heavy hitter, dropped Balterino in the fifth round for the full count.

Fight fans are demanding an investigation.

SPECTATORS ARE LACKING

Dublin, Oct. 29.—After playing an 8-8 tie exhibition game Sunday at Croke park before fewer than 20 spectators, the New York Giants and the Chicago White Sox cancelled yesterday's game and departed for London. The newspapers commented on the lack of publicity given the game and the fact that it was played when most people were at church.

WILL CHALLENGE GOLF VISITORS TO RETURN GO

By NEA Service
Los Angeles, Oct. 29.—It is probable Walter Hagen and Macdonald Smith will challenge the two invading Britishers, Abe Mitchell and George Duncan, to a 72-hole best-ball match shortly after the holidays.

The visitors will arrive in Seattle Dec. 20. They handed Hagen and Smith a pasting abroad last spring and the Americans are eager to get revenge.

Golf enthusiasts are trying to land the match for the coast, and it may be played either here or in San Francisco.

ASH IS NO WILDE

Frankie Ash, British flyweight, has proved a poor substitute for Jimmy Wilde. Ash has been in this country for several months and has lost to some of our worst fighters with great regularity.

TAYLOR'S BAD ARM

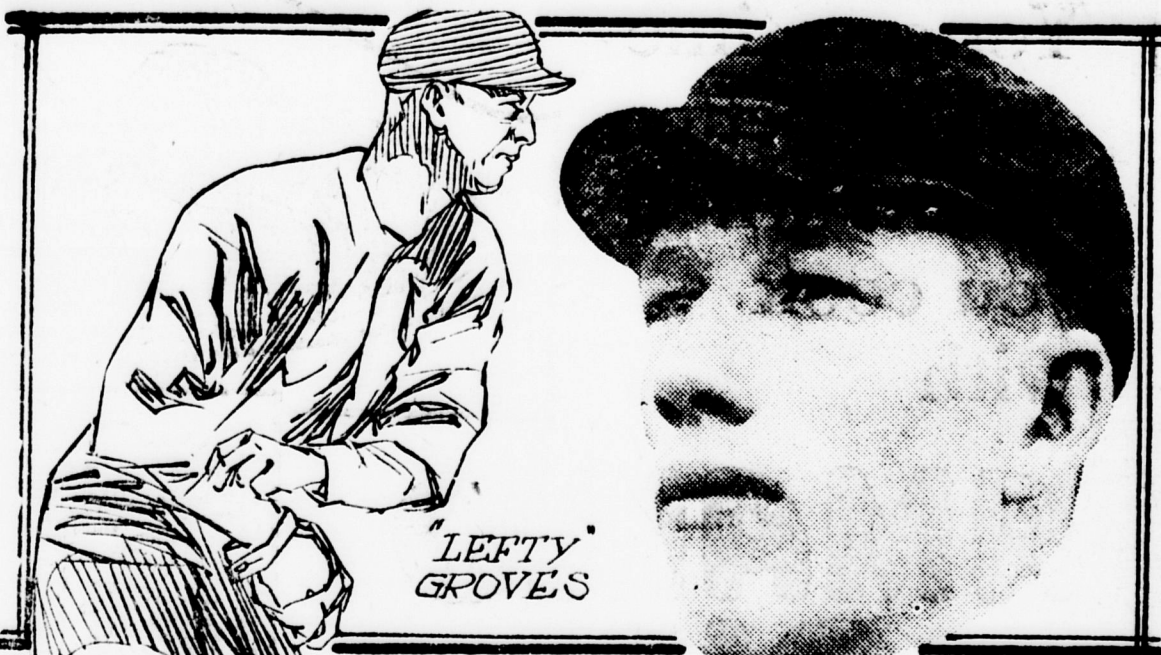

Buddy Taylor, Hoosier bantamweight, is handicapped with a temperamental left arm which is continually snapping out of place at the shoulder socket. This may keep him from winning a title.

SOUTHPAWS DOMINATE BIG LEAGUES

Connie Mack Purchases Prize Package in "Lefty" Groves

BY BILLY EVANS

Just at present left handed pitchers seem to dominate the major league batsmen.

So pronounced is the superiority of the southpaws over the swatters that Eddie Collins, half in jest and half in earnest, remarked to me one day last summer:

"Now that I am nearly through as an infielder, I only wish I threw left handed. I would start pitching and stick around for about 10 more years."

The White Sox had been beaten that afternoon by a southpaw, who in the language of the ball field is regarded as a "nothing pitcher."

By way of explanation, a "nothing pitcher" to the diamond athletes is a twirler who has nothing to fool the batter, just nice speed to hit and an easy curve to follow.

However, in these days of the lively ball the "nothing pitcher" is quite successful.

Southpaws Jolt Giants

No one would ever accuse Southpaws Zachary and Mogridge of Washington of having the stuff of "Gabe" Waddell, yet they stood the Giants on their heads in the recent world series, after Walter Johnson, with a world of stuff, had failed.

The supremacy of the southpaw in pitching circles has caused the major league magnates to comb the country for likely material.

Just as the season closed Washington announced that it had purchased the veteran Vean Gregg from Seattle of the Pacific Coast League.

Ten years ago Gregg was one of the outstanding pitchers in the majors. In sheer ability he is one of the few southpaws I have ever understood who compared with the famous Rube Waddell.

Sensational Comeback

An injury robbed Gregg of much of his stuff, he slipped to the minors for a few years then retired from baseball. Now at an age close to the forty mark, he is doing a sensational comeback.

At the close of the world series Connie Mack of the Athletics broke into print in big headlines with the announcement that he had purchased Pitcher Groves of Baltimore for a trifle more than $100,000 and a few German marks.

In Groves, Mack gets the minor league pitching sensation of the last two years. Every major league club has been angling for his services. Big figures have been offered Jack Dunn for his prize left hander. Evidently Connie Mack must have made a flattering proposition to the Baltimore magnate.

Groves has had two phenomenal years at Baltimore. His great work figured largely in the winning of the last two pennants.

Groves, Strikeout King

He is the strikeout king of the league. In 1923 he established a record for the International by whiffing 320 men in 303 innings, an average of better than one an inning. Some pitching, believe me.

Groves' greatest fault is his wildness. It may be a bigger handicap than ever in the majors, where a pitcher inclined to be wild is waited out more than in the minors.

If Groves is 25 per cent efficient for Mack, he will have repaid Connie for the generous money outlay. Should Groves prove a consistent winner, beware the Athletics.

Manager Harris Admits Champs Weak in Reserve Strength

Washington, Oct. 29.—Manager Stanley Harris of the world champs is willing to stand pat on his club except for reserve strength. He says:

"My regulars are as good as any team in the league. I do not know a single spot where the first stringers could be bettered.

"The world series games did prove the weakness of my reserve strength, particularly in the infield.

"The developing of capable substitutes will be my biggest task for the coming season."

Had the Washington club suffered the loss of Muddy Ruel last year for any length of time, the team would have probably gone to pieces.

Ruel did practically all the catching and lost 20 pounds in doing it. He can't be asked to repeat next year.

A veteran catcher, capable of going good for about 40 games, would be an ideal addition to the Nationals. Such a backstop would enable Ruel to take an occasional rest.

Many of the coaches are going to be hard put to replace stars of last year.

At Michigan Yost is going to miss the kicking of Kipke, the generalship of Uteritz and the all-round play of Jack Blott.

Minnesota will feel the loss of Martineau. Ohio State will have trouble replacing Hoge Workman. Chicago will be without John Thomas, battering back.

Notre Dame is one of the leading eleven that hasn't been so hard hit. A year ago Kockne had his share of woe when he lost practically his entire team for various reasons.

One star player doesn't always make a team but there is no denying that he has considerable to say about it.

A coach can't always make a star out of an ordinary player but a star player can often make a miracle man out of a just so-so coach.

The Bozo Bugle today predicted editorially a sweeping victory for Hoover vacuums at the polls, both north and south.

In urging a return to flaskless hips, hand-ruffled eye-brows and the gutta percha golf ball, the Daily Blah today endorsed the following platform:

Restoration of eight-hour loafing day.

Elimination of talbees and other foreign substances from hash.

Deportation of parlor rattle-skulls who say, "Now stop me if you've heard this one."

Execution without delay of young fathers who persist in showing

MOFFIT

Married at Hazelton, on Wednesday, October 15, Miss Cora Miller of Hazelton, and Mr. Harold Lane of Moffit.

Recital given at the Moffit hall October 11 from 3 to 5 p. m. by Mrs. W. Edson was appreciated and enjoyed by a large crowd. After the musical program a lovely lunch was served in the F. Hinsey building by the ladies at Moffit and a nice sum of money realized for the benefit of the church. The recital was free.

Married at Bismarck, October 18, Mrs. Elizabeth Miller of Moffit and Asa G. Werner, also of Moffit.

Mrs. Tom Watkins, who has been in Minnesota for the past two months or more, in attendance upon her sick mother, has returned home. Mrs. Watkins left her mother still confined to her bed.

Walter Johnson, one of the great pitchers of all time and whose experience in the world series reads like fairy tale, approves the clay statue of himself. It was done by U. S. J. Dunbar, Washington sculptor.

Those included in the party were: Messrs. H. Nelson, Fred Moffit, A. Faust and E. Enockson. Their place of "shoot" being Browns peninsula on Long Lake.

Edgar Cooper, son of T. G. Cooper, formerly of Moffit, but now living in Fair Oaks, Calif., is visiting in the old home neighborhood, having come through with motorcycle and side car. Edgar expects to return to his California home after a visit with old friends and schoolmates.

Merrel Kendal has opened up a one-chair barber shop in the "Wear You Well" building in Moffit. Mr. Kendal returned to Moffit recently after an absence of several years.

Mrs. Fred Dutton of Emmons county has returned from a visit spent with friends and relatives in the east.

A new star appeared at a recital conducted by Mrs. W. Edson at Moffit recently in the person of little Miss Bernice, age 3, youngest daughter of Mrs. Edson. This lovely little baby expressed a wish to appear in the program. After receiving permission, Bernice played a piano solo, entitled "America." The little one enjoyed the burst of applause, smiling a pretty "thanks" upon the audience.

IMMIGRANTS COMING
That not less than fifty families from the Rhine valley mainly from the Ruhr district will form the first contingent of German immigrants to the slope vicinity was the statement made by M. Kaumanns, who recently arrived here from that section of Europe.

Mr. Kaumanns, accompanied by Secretary Ketter of the Commercial club visited in the Hannover and New Salem vicinity and was greatly pleased with the progress made by farmers in that vicinity. He was also a visitor at the leading Holstein farms and the Northern Great Plains Experimental station.

The class of people who are desirous of locating here are both of the Lutheran and Catholic belief and are adept in dairying and fruit farming. Mr. Kaumanns has also visited several other points in the western part of the state but states that the immediate vicinity around Mandan offers the best opportunity for the newcomers who are awaiting word from him.

Bible is that used by U. S. Chief Justice Rathbone in the original founding of the order.

Harry L. Love, Supreme Keeper of Records & Seals, Minneapolis, Grand Chancellor A. W. Paterson of Grand Forks, formerly of Leith, and numerous notables in Pythian work from the state and elsewhere will be in attendance at the meeting. It is expected that approximately 400 Pythians from the nine lodges will watch the ceremonies. Local committees are busy preparing to entertain the visitors.

OPEN MORE ROAD

About half mile additional paved highway on the inter-city "concrete" has been opened by the contractors, cutting to less than a mile the distance which must be covered via the rough detour. The entire highway will be open for traffic on November 4, it has been announced.

Arabs love bargaining

Eloquence is the accomplishment on which Arabs most pride themselves. They are continually hurling rhetoric, proverbs, poetical quotations at each other. Of course, there are many opportunities for speechmaking, but they enjoy it most while engaged in buying and selling.

No matter how simple and staple the article may be, fifteen minutes is the least that can be taken over a transaction. And then it has been greatly hurried!

Just imagine if we had to bargain for fifteen minutes over everything we bought! Yet not so very long ago, every purchase was a matter of bargaining. It is thanks to advertising that it is no longer so today.

We sometimes forget how important advertising is. We do not realize all it is doing for us. Yet, if it had achieved nothing more than to do away with bargaining, it would be a boon to mankind. But it does more. It puts purchasing on a business basis. It protects you against fraud and inferiority. You can plan your shopping according to your pocketbook, and not according to the patience and bargaining ability of everyone you will have to face. When you think it over you must realize that it pays to read the advertisements.

William M. Butler, At The Helm Of Coolidge-Dawes Campaign, Is Far From Stranger To Politics

Direction of a national campaign is a task requiring outstanding capabilities in him who is chosen to perform it. Tact, keen political judgment and organization skill must be combined with a personality engaging enough to make and hold friends.

William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican National Committee, was selected by President Coolidge for this work because the Chief Executive had determined through long years of association with him that he was ideally equipped. The wisdom of the designation has been manifest since it was made. Chairman Butler has been carrying on smoothly and accomplishing its purposes without friction.

It has been said of the chairman that he "is as silent as Coolidge." This is an accurate appraisal. Add to that typically New England characteristic a marked tolerance for the opinions of others and a high regard for their suggestions, together with an undeniable ability in politics and it is not difficult to agree with the President in his choice.

There are some who believe that politics is a comparatively new activity for Chairman Butler. Nothing could be further removed from the truth. The chairman has been in politics since he graduated from Boston University as a bachelor of laws in 1884. In 1890 he was elected to the Massachusetts House of Representatives from New Bedford, the town in which he was born on January 29, 1861. After two years of service in the House he was elected to the State Senate where he served until 1896.

Chairman Butler's last public duty was held in 1909, five years after he had taken up his residence in Boston, his present home. There he has been a time, however, as he has not been active in the politics of the Republican party in Massachusetts. Murray Crane, of Boston, it has been said that no one has been a more active politician ever lived, and who was a shrewd judge of men, early selected William M. Butler as one of his confidants, and this association had much to do with the preparation of the national chairman for the important work in which he is now engaged.

In addition to his association as a partner in one of the most prominent law firms in Boston, Chairman Butler is interested in a number of large industrial enterprises.

TAX REDUCTION BILL ATTACKED BY EDUCATORS

Measure. It Is Assorted, Would Lower Efficiency of Schools in State

ARGUMENT ANSWERED

Taxpayers Body Asserts That Measure Is Necessary to Prevent Confiscation

Arguments for and against the initiated law, to be voted on November 4, providing for a reduction in taxes by law, is being carried on in the state by the North Dakota Education Association, against the bill, and the State Taxpayers Association, for the bill.

The North Dakota Education Association charges that the bill would adversely affect the schools of the state, while the taxpayers body asserts the bill is necessary to bring about normal conditions in North Dakota, Education Association, in part, says:

1. It will lower the efficiency of the teaching staff. Why? In Grand Forks city 71 percent of the school levy is paid out for teachers' salaries. The other charges are practically fixed. The city cannot spend less for fuel. The other items, like janitors, supplies, etc., cannot be cut and if so, the figure would be extremely small and would at the same time reduce efficiency. What does it then mean? It means that the salaries of teachers must be cut approximately 33 1-3 per cent. Do you for a minute imagine that a well qualified teacher will remain in North Dakota if her salary is going to be cut 33 1-3 per cent? They can and will go elsewhere? What is the result? Your schools will be manned by fewer teachers, by less experienced teachers, by poorly prepared teachers. And a school is just as good as its efficiency in its teaching staff.

2. It will lower the standard of schools. Probably we will have fewer teachers. Some courses may be eliminated. A shorter school year may be suggested. What does that mean? Would you want to send your children to inferior schools?

3. It may eliminate part of the High School work. In fact in some cities and towns, it will close the High Schools entirely and some of the rural schools will be forced to close. What then about the boys and girls? What then about the future citizens of this State? Do not say that this won't happen. It will happen since the cut will be equivalent to the cost of running the High School. And, no doubt, some places will desire to keep a good grade school even if they must sacrifice the High School.

4. What about our Higher Institutions of learning? In fact in some cities, the Agricultural College and Normal Schools? What would the University be without its college of Medicine, Law, Health Department, Extension Department, University High School?

5. The bill is unfair, unscientific and undemocratic. Why unfair? It penalizes the school districts that have been most economical. Devils Lake must cut her school levy still 25 per cent. The district that has been the most extravagant, it is the one that will be least affected.

Why unscientific? The State of North Dakota was hit hard for the last few years. Taxes have gone up. Taxes probably could be reduced, but has there been an investigation where they should be reduced? No, arbitrarily, the bill simply says all taxing bodies must limit their levies to 75 per cent of the levy of 1923. It does not discriminate. It does not weigh facts and consider effects. By one fell swoop it simply says, "You

Republican Work To Better Marketing Conditions Wins Women's Approbation

FARM WOMEN WHO PRODUCE AND TOWN AND CITY WOMEN WHO BUY ARE JOINT BENEFICIARIES OF NEW PLANK IN PLATFORM

This is the fifth of a series of five articles by Mrs. Alvin T. Hertz, vice-chairman of the Republican National Committee, and chairman of the Women's Division of that committee. Mrs. Hertz discusses what she considers vital campaign issues from the woman's standpoint.

BY MRS. ALVIN T. HERTZ

Not alone do the women on the farms who have been hindered by poor marketing conditions for the milk, butter, eggs, fruit and vegetables which they have produced with so many hours of labor, but the women in the towns and cities of this country who buy these products approve of the activities of the Republican administration to bring about better marketing conditions.

Marketing has been the most difficult problem for the farmer's wife as well as for the farmer. To work from daybreak to dusk, to produce bountiful crops and then when they are harvested to find that there is no market for them or that the market is so inaccessible as to make it impossible for the products to be taken to it has often been the poor reward of the men and women on farms. A thrifty farmer's wife feels that she must produce only what she is able to sell, for waste is abhorrent to her. No matter how thrifty she is, however, she is often hampered by our poor marketing system. It is the duty of the government to improve this system. There is always a demand for dairy products and fruit and vegetables. More than one-half of our population now lives in towns and cities. The great problem is to get the products from the farm to the city consumer.

A plan whereby a group of neighbors may market their products together means a saving of both time and money to the farmer's wife.

Until February, 1922 there was no federal law recognizing marketing associations. Co-operative marketing associations, it is true, had grown up in many states, but these associations had no right to engage in interstate or foreign commerce. For this reason and for the purpose of giving further encouragement to the organization of such associations by the farmers of this country, the Republican Congress passed the co-operating marketing association act.

This law gives to men and women on the farms the right to form associations for collecting, preparing and marketing their products and to sell their products outside their states and to foreign countries wherever they find available markets.

It was because of the belief of the Republican party that the tax money have mis-stated its contents and misrepresented its effect. The law will control and not what they say.

Taxes in five years have confiscated all the property of 30 per cent of our farmers.

Taxes have driven from North Dakota 87,000 of our population since 1919.

Taxes have increased from $11,992,391 to $31,613,425, in North Dakota in twelve years.

Taxes to educate a child in our common schools have increased from $26.00 in 1915 to $110. in 1923.

Taxes to maintain our University and State Educational institutions increased from $700,784 in 1918, to $2,172,786 in 1923. The cost of maintaining our Hospital for the Insane and our charitable and penal institutions decreased $25,000 per annum in the same period.

These figures demonstrate that our educational system can lower expenses 25 percent without injury.

We have less people, farm incomes have decreased 50 per cent and our taxes are three times as much.

Taxes must be levied according to the people's ability to pay. Pass the bill and all institutions will be made more efficient.

After retiring from his work as a gardener at the age of 70, a man in Sunbury, England, took up cycling and rode 46,000 miles before he died.

JAMES FORGAN, NOTED BANKER, DIES AT HOME

Entered Bank in Scotland as an Apprentice Many Years Ago

Chicago, Oct. 29.—James B. Forgan, for more than a quarter of a century one of the leading bankers of the middlewest, died here last night, after an illness of but a few days. He was 72 years old.

Despite an arduous and active life in the financial world, Mr. Forgan had been in excellent health until recently when he became a sufferer from ulcers of the stomach. Last week he collapsed while at his desk and a few days thereafter submitted to a blood transfusion operation which brought temporary relief.

James Berwick Forgan was born at St. Andrews, Scotland, April 11, 1852, and was educated at Madras college, St. Andrews and Forbes academy, Forbes, Scotland. After leaving school he began his career as a banker by entering the service of the Royal Bank of Scotland as an apprentice.

Later he applied for a position in the Bank of British North America and obtained it after a competitive examination and shortly thereafter went to Montreal as a representative of the bank and was transferred to New York and eventually to Halifax, N. S.

In 1885 he went to Minneapolis and established a branch of the Nova Scotia Bank and in 1888 he became cashier and manager of the Northwestern National Bank of Minneapolis. He began his Chicago career Jan. 1, 1892, when he came here as one of the vice presidents of the First National Bank of which Lyman J. Gage was then president.

In 1900 he succeeded Mr. Gage as president of the First National bank. Recently Mr. Forgan had finished autobiography in which he gave much of the credit for his success to his upbringing by frugal, God-fearing parents and to the constant helpfulness of his wife.

Mr. Forgan was an ardent golfer and attributed his good health in recent years to his exercise on the links.

AUTO THEFT RING BROKEN

Minneapolis Police Breaks Up Ring

Minneapolis, Oct. 29.—The most ingenious and best equipped band of automobile thieves that ever operated in the northwest is under arrest in Minneapolis, police announced last night.

With the arrest of William Brazil, late in the day, the complete gang, each representing different branches of the automobile industry, who, it is alleged, have stolen more than 50 cars during the past few weeks, were in custody.

The men held are Brazil, automobile top maker; Harley Peterson, automobile salesman; Vincent Devine, automobile mechanic, and Fred Marcotte, automobile upholsterer.

Detectives questioned the men for hours and announced that as a result they have recovered 16 stolen automobiles and know the whereabouts of at least 18 more, which they will attempt to locate tomorrow. They said tonight that they are confident that the operations of the four men involved an even greater number of cars than has already been disclosed.

GREAT BUILDING YEAR
Chicago, Oct. 29.—Indications are that 1924 will be the greatest building year in the history of the country, according to a review made public by the Indiana Limestone Quarriers' Association. Building construction for the first eight months of the year has reached a total of $3,429,000,000. And there still is a widespread demand for building.

There are more than 800,000 miners in the British Isles.

Kellogg's Bran delights father by bringing health to children

Poor little kids—they needed bran badly. But they wouldn't eat ordinary bran. They didn't like them. Most folks don't. Then their father tried Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled. What a difference! He tells the story in his letter:

"Dear Sirs:
I wish to express my appreciation of your krumbled bran, which I have used for my children this summer. We had a great deal of trouble with them through constipation, and bran had been the most satisfactory remedy but they could not be induced to take the old varieties. . . because they disliked them so. They enjoy the krumbled bran and consider it an essential ingredient of their porridge. No one whose children have not been troubled in this way can appreciate the relief there is in having their bowels move regularly."
(The original of this letter is on file

at the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Mich.)
Constipation is a dangerous disease. It should not be neglected. But do not try halfway measures in seeking relief. Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran. And it takes ALL bran to be 100% effective. Kellogg's Bran is guaranteed to bring permanent relief, if eaten regularly, in the most chronic cases. If it fails, your grocer will return your money.

Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream. The flavor is delicious. Sprinkle it on other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Try it in the recipes on every package. It will bring you health. Begin eating it to-day. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers.
